ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Mrs. Traynor and family, Chapelizod, desire to express their sincere thanks for the many letters and expressions of sympathy received in their sad bereavement, and hope their kind friends will accept this acknowledgment.

IN MEMORIAM.

CAREY—In ever-loving memory of mother, who died on the 25th October, 1918.

She is safe in her Father's House above,
In the place prepared by her Saviour's love;
To depart from a world of sin and strife,
To be with Jesus? Yes, this is life.

Inserted by Harry, Willie, Lizzie, and Babs.

GODDARD—In affectionate remembrance of Robina Georgina Goddard, who died at Latour, Terenure rd., October 25th, 1912.

MOYNAN—In ever-loving memory of James Moynan (Jim), Motor Garage, Thurles, who died on 25th of October, 1918. Sadly missed by his sorrowing father, mother, brothers, and sisters.

The golden gates were open,
A gentle voice said "Come!"
And with farewells unspoken
He calmly entered Home.—May.

POWER—In loving memory of Kathleen (Cissie), called Home October 25th, 1920. "And they shall see His face."

WARREN—In tender and increasingly thankful remembrance of our beloved little son, Brainerd, who was taken from us 25th October, 1918.—Herbert and Persis Warren, Hortland House, Donadea, Co. Kildare. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth My word, and believeth on Him that sent Me, hath everlasting Life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto Life," John v., 24. . . . . "Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto Babes," Matt. xi., 25. . . . . We thank Thee, O Father . . . . for so it seemed good in Thy sight," Matt. xi., 26.

BELOW IS AN EXTRACT FROM A LETTER RECENTLY RECEIVED:—

Wilts.

Messrs. E. and W. Seale, 97 and 98 Grafton street, Dublin.

Dear Sirs,—I have not been in Ireland for many years, not I think since 1907, and I do not know what may have happened in Dublin since then.

I want some new shirts and should like to get them from you if your firm is still in existence. I will send you a shirt to act as pattern and will ask you to make me six new shirts of the same quality.

When I went up as a youth to Oxford in 1856, 65 years ago, you made my shirts for me, and I have had shirts from you on several occasions since that date.

I am wearing one of yours at the present moment, and I have preferred your shirts to those which I have had from any other maker.

I am now 83 years of age, so it is probable this is the last order which I shall ever give.

I am, very faithfully yours,

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. William Corrigan, of Duncairn Gardens, Belfast, has accepted an invitation to succeed the Rev. J. M. Alley at Cork next June.

A ministers' fraternal for the Cork district has been formed. At the first meeting, which was held at Bandon, the Rev. J. H. Munro, C.F., was appointed secretary, and the Rev. J. W. Oliver delivered an impressive address on "Neglected Factors in Preaching." It was decided that the next meeting shall be held in Dunmanway in January.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Harold's Cross Y.M.C.A.—This evening, at 8 o'clock. Essay, "Gilbertian Humour," Mr. H. O. Tisdall. Opening speaker, Mr. C. Fennell.

SUNDAY TRADING.

LICENSING SESSIONS CASES.

Strong comments were made on the evils of Sunday trading and the bona fide travellers' traffic at the hearing of applications for transfers and confirmations of licences before the Right Hon. the Recorder at Green street, Dublin, yesterday.

In the case of Mrs. Catherine Doyle, Ballyboden, Co. Dublin,

Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C. (instructed by Mr. Stritch) applied for a transfer from Mrs. Catherine Doyle to her granddaughter, who had been, in fact, managing the business for her for a considerable period without reproach from any source.

Sir John Irwin (one of the magistrates) said that he would urge that if the application was granted the Recorder should impose a condition that the premises should not be opened before 12 o'clock on Sundays. The practice had prevailed of opening earlier, and it was a serious temptation to working men. It should be put an end to.

The Recorder said that the young lady might not be equal to taking charge of the business—she might require a "chucker-out." In any case the place should not be used to supply drink early in the morning.

Sir John Irwin—That is exactly what I would wish to have stopped.

The Recorder—Anyone who has read Carleton's "Traits and Stories" will appreciate the terrible injury caused by such a practice. Why carry on what is a scandal—the selling of drink to people before 12 o'clock on a Sunday morning? The practice had been condemned by such a high authority as Cardinal Logue.

District Inspector Colbert, in reply to the bench, said that the trade in this house had been properly carried on.

A Police Sergeant said that drink was supplied Sunday after Sunday at 11 o'clock and up to 12 o'clock to bona-fide travellers.

Mr. James Henry, who appeared for the Temperance Party, said that drinking went on in this place during Divine worship at the churches.

The Recorder granted the transfer, but directed that no drink should be sold before 11 o'clock on Sundays.

LUCAN HOTEL APPLICATION.

Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., with whom was Mr. Rearden (instructed by Mr. Thomas Breen) applied for a licence in respect of the Hermitage, Lucan, which it was proposed to conduct as a fully-equipped hotel. The applicant, Mr. John Howard, had been for many years manager of the well-known Royal Dublin Golf Club, and then went to the Spa Hotel, Lucan. He had conceived the idea of starting a hotel on the banks of the Liffey at one of the most picturesque and beautiful sites in Europe. He had spent several thousand pounds on the old demesne, residence and surroundings, and a beautiful new hotel it would be. The only question was whether it would have the advantage of being able to supply wines and spirits—legitimate refreshment—to the residents' friends and visitors. They did not seek to have a bar.

The Recorder—You certainly won't get it. In a London hotel you would not get anything like the facilities you ask.

Mr. Healy—Ah, it was not for that the barons met at Runnymede. (Laughter.)

The Recorder—That is quite so, Mr. Healy.

The Recorder said that he must refuse the application.

Mr. Healy said that he would bring on the application again.

RAILWAY BAR AT KINGSTOWN.

An application was made on behalf of the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway Company for a licence for a refreshment room which it was proposed to start at Kingstown railway station.

The Recorder, on a point raised by Mr. Healy, held that there was no evidence of title, and the application was refused.

TRADE AND TRANSIT.

WHY RAILWAY RATES ARE HIGH.

"Trade and Transit" was the subject of an address given yesterday by Mr. G. E. Smyth, Traffic Manager, Great Southern and Western Railway, at the weekly lunch meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club at Messrs. Kidd's restaurant, Grafton street.

In explaining the present abnormally high rates, he mentioned that the gross receipts of the railways of Great Britain during the year ending July last were 254 millions sterling and the expenditure was 270 millions, or a loss of 16 millions. In 1913 the gross receipts were 125 millions and the expenditure 88 millions. The expenditure, therefore, had gone up by 182 millions, while the receipts had increased only by 119 millions. In other words, the railways were at present selling transit under cost.

Dealing with the nationalisation of railways, Mr. Smyth said that he did not desire to challenge or defend either the State or the company owned system; both had advantages and disadvantages. Many State railways were managed by companies, and, on the other hand, company-owned concerns were guaranteed by the State. The German railways, for instance, were taken over by the State for military purposes and also for the "protection" of trade.

COST OF CONSTRUCTION.

Railways were sometimes built by the State in order to develop industries at the cost of the taxpayers. British railway construction was the most expensive in the world; the cost was actually double that of Germany. It was largely due to the difficulties experienced in the matter of land acquisition and the arrangement of the numerous interests involved. About two-thirds of the world's railways were company owned or managed.

Dealing with the pillage of traffic in transit, he said that the proportion of articles tampered with in connection with the Great Southern and Western Railway was one in 5,500, and he considered that that was not a bad record. He defended railway servants, and claimed that they were not responsible for pilfering. Energetic steps were being taken by all carrying companies to stamp out this objectionable and discreditable source of complaint. Co-operation on the part of merchants and traders by means of better packing was desirable.

He claimed for transit an important place in the world's economy. It was not only the handmaid of commerce, but the harbinger of civilisation.

A cordial vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Smyth for his address.

ZINC CONCENTRATES.

SUPPLY FROM AUSTRALIA.

The Board of Trade announce that they have instructed their agents in Australia to ship a supply of Broken Hill zinc concentrates to England, and will be prepared, if desired, to maintain supplies to meet the immediate requirements of smelters in the United Kingdom. In order to enable smelters to re-start their works and provide employment, the Board will be prepared to consider offers for these concentrates delivered at works. Offers for future deliveries over a period will also receive consideration.

The British Metal Corporation, Limited of 3 Abchurch Yard, London, E.C. 4, have been appointed the agents of the Board of Trade for all business relating to concentrates for disposal in the United Kingdom, and all inquiries as to prices, terms, etc., should be addressed to the Corporation.

TAR'S EFFECT ON FISH.

GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTS.

The Committee appointed in May, 1919, jointly by the Road Board (now the Roads Department of the Ministry of Transport) and the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries to investigate the risk of damage to fisheries by rain-washings from tar-treated roads is not yet in a position to issue a final report upon its investigations, but an experimental station has been set up at Alresford, in Hampshire, and useful experiments have been conducted.

The roadway adjoining the station was recently tarred, and the rain-washings therefrom diverted into specially-constructed ponds stocked with fish. It is proposed to continue observations on the tarred road washings throughout the life of the tarred surface, as it is possible that in its final stages of disintegration the tarred surface may revert to a condition in which it has greater polluting action on rain-washings.

Meanwhile the following conclusions may be tentatively drawn:—

(1) Rain-washings from a water-bound macadam road surface are not in any ordinary circumstances injurious to fish or fish food.

(2) The first rain-washings from a road surface which has been recently tarred, say within a week, will certainly be injurious to fish and fish food unless mixed with at least an equal volume of clean water, and may be injurious unless mixed with a considerably larger volume of clean water. They will not, however, be injurious to fish or fish food if diluted with at least ten times their volume of clean water.

(3) Subsequent rain-washings from a tarred road in the early stages of its life are not injurious to fish and fish food provided they are mixed with at least an equal volume of clean water.

(4) Filtration through freshly-cut turf reduces the injurious character of rain-washings from a tarred road.

(5) Storage of rain-washings from a tarred road reduces, in some respects, the toxic character.

(6) There is no evidence that pond vegetation is injured by rain-washings from a tarred road.

The foregoing conclusions apply when the tar used complies substantially with the Road Board specification for tar No. 1.

NEWMARKET.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE PROSPECTS.

SELECTIONS FOR TO-DAY.

NEWMARKET, Monday.

General appearances suggest a somewhat quiet Houghton fixture. Scratchings from the programme have been numerous lately, but too much importance has been given in several quarters to the removal of the whole of Mr. James White's horses. One London newspaper describes it as a bombshell, whereas it has been common knowledge for a week that sickness has been rife in the stable. Northern Light does not run for the Cambridgeshire, I understand, and the Manton choice will be made between Blue Lady and Manilardo. I hear that Senhora is very much fancied, and that a good light-weight jockey is secured. It would be interesting were Orpheus, Blue Dun, and Blue Lady to turn out for the Limekiln Stakes to-morrow, but in other respects the card promises well. My selections for the opening day are:—

Trial Plate—Featherstone.
Limekiln Stakes—Orpheus.
Criterion Stakes—F. Darling's selected.
Rutland Handicap—Stanislaus or Air Balloon.
Old Nursery—Passin' Through.
Dalham Plate—Wanderlust.
Fordham Welter—Buffoon or Capstan.

NOTTINGHAM.

WIN FOR WILL O' THE WISP.

DOUBLE FOR H. A. BROWN.

Though not so large as anticipated, runners here yesterday were sufficiently numerous to make racing interesting. Following heavy week-end rains, the going was almost perfect, while the attendance was large. Patlander, on whom odds were laid to win the Clifton Hurdle, jumped badly and came down two fences from home. Will o' the Wisp, next in demand, led throughout, and, resisting the challenge of Frizburg, won by three-parts of a length. There appeared to be no grounds for the objection, and it was not surprising that the Stewards overruled it and ordered the deposit to be forfeited. H. A. Brown scored a popular win on O'Flyn in the Welbeck Hurdle, and completed a double by scoring for Lord Londesborough on Eager Prince. The Newark Steeplechase went to Sherwood Forester, the locally-owned Shallogans, who threatened most danger, falling two fences from home. Details:—

1.45.—CLIFTON (S.) HDLE, £150. 2 m.

AUSTRALIANS' TOUR.

BRIGHT CRICKET IN SOUTH AFRICA.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.)
JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 22 (delayed).

The close of the first day's play in the opening match of the Australians' tour in South Africa, which commenced here to-day in glorious weather, found the advantage with the visitors, who, in reply to the Transvaal's total of 173, compiled 112 for the loss of two wickets. The chief feature of the home side's innings was the excellent display of W. F. Marx and C. Frank, two youthful players, who only recently left school. They, respectively, scored 65 and 45, and together put on 75 runs for the fifth wicket. There was a large attendance at the start, and at the tea interval it had increased to 12,000. Leroux won the toss for the Transvaal, and put his side in first. The Australians, on taking the field, were accorded a rousing reception. The home side's innings was opened by Zulch and Frank, who had to face the fast bowling of Gregory and MacDonald. There was a disappointing start, as Zulch, while playing forward to one of MacDonald's lightning deliveries, was clean bowled, with only one run scored, while three runs later Gregory got Lindsay well caught in the slips by Mailey. Cooper evoked much applause by his resolute treatment of the fast bowling. Gregory, who appeared to be bowling neither so fast nor so well as MacDonald, was relieved by Mailey, and Macartney displaced MacDonald. Macartney's slows almost immediately proved effective, Cooper's wicket falling to him at 45. With Frank and Ward together, the rate of scoring slowed down, Macartney delivering four maiden overs in succession. Ward, after scoring 3, was then bowled by Macartney at 57, and Marx joined Frank. These two young batsmen carried the total to 70 when lunch was taken. When play was resumed the weather conditions were not so good as before lunch, a strong wind blowing a good deal of dust about. Gregory, who was troubled by an injured leg, was relieved by Ryder. Marx and Frank continued to play confident cricket. Cheers greeted the hoisting of the century, and, in spite of the attempts of Macartney, Collins, and Hendry, Marx made the scoring appear easy. He passed Frank's total, and reached 52 when the latter was bowled by Hendry for an invaluable 45. The score then stood at 132 for 5. Frank occupied the wicket two hours and three-quarters, and had faced all the bowling with steadiness. Meintjes, who followed Frank, fell to MacDonald for 3 at 151, and Leroux met with no better fate, for Mailey caught him in the slips when he had scored only 2. Marx had increased his score to 65, and the total was 156 for 7. The tea interval was taken at 169 for 7. On the resumption of play Gregory immediately caught Marx off Mailey without any increase in the total. Mailey brought the innings to a conclusion by dismissing Nupen. Collins and Bardsley opened the visitors' innings with ease and assurance against Hall and Leroux. Fifty runs were put up after twenty minutes' play, and the batting was delightful to watch. When Nupen came on to bowl he soon had Bardsley in difficulties. After two narrow escapes from being bowled Bardsley was caught by Cooper, off Nupen, for 26. The score then stood at 65. After adding 3, Collins was out to Meintjes for obstructing his wicket. Macartney at this point had compiled 14, and the total stood at 75 for 2. Andrews and Macartney carried the total to 112, when play closed for the day. Score:—

TO-DAY'S FIXTURE.

Dublin University 3rd B v. Bank of Ireland. College Park, 4.15.

ANGLING ON NORTHERN RIVERS.

Just when the season was on the verge of the last week, rain in goodly quantity came on, and although too late for the rivers which closed last week—such as the Mourne, Faughan, Ree, etc.—will give the anglers a chance on the Maine, County Antrim; Blackwater, County Tyrone, and the Crossgar, Lagan—on which Belfast stands—and Moneycaragh, County Down. All these waters are high in flood, and should fish well in a day or two. The season closes everywhere in Ireland next Monday. Big runs of salmon are going up the Bann, Erne, and other large rivers. Eels are now well on the run downstream to the sea. The Lough Neagh Fisheries close on the 31st inst.

HOCKEY FIXTURES FOR TO-DAY.

Maids of the Mountain.—Practice for 1st and 2nd teams, Foxrock, 2 o'clock.

GREAT FIGHT.

CHARLES LEDOUX BEATEN.

At Hanley last night, before a crowded house, Tommy Harrison, the local boxer, met the redoubtable little Frenchman, Charles Ledoux, in a 20 rounds contest for the Championship of Europe. Both men have established great reputations in their several ways. Harrison, before the war, put up a great fight with Jimmy Wilde; while he has encountered all our best men at his weight, and, by his skill and hard punching, has overcome some of the toughest.

Last night, however, he faced the severest proposition of his career. The sturdy little Frenchman had defeated every British champion that had been put against him. The list of his victims included Sid. Smith, Bill Beynon, Curley Walker, Digger Stanley, Joe Bowker, Tommy Noble, Walter Ross, and latterly Jim Driscoll and Jim Higgins (the present English title holder). At his best Ledoux is a great fighter—speedy, clever, and possessed of great ring craft, in addition to being endowed with great punishing power with either hand. The prospect was not encouraging for Harrison, despite the confidence of his supporters, when he faced Ledoux.

It was a fine, sparkling contest, waged at a great pace right through. At the end of the first round odds were laid on Ledoux. The Frenchman had the famous Deschamps in his corner, and was apparently very confident. He fought like a whirlwind for the first three rounds, but from the beginning of the third round Harrison settled down, and, getting the measure of his man, began to stop him with a telling straight left. Ledoux's usual counter to the left appeared missing, and Harrison, adjusting his methods to his rival's, boxed so well that at the end of the tenth round he was clearly leading on points. Expectations then ran high on the strength of Ledoux being able to employ his characteristic hooks and Harrison's ability to avoid them; and there was always the doubt as to Harrison's power to withstand his opponent's determined assaults. Harrison, however, boxed cleverly and with resource, and improved round after round. He never looked like beating Ledoux by a knock out. Indeed, he never really appeared to rely on it, but, after the 15th round, he had so much in hand that he never for a moment looked like losing.

In the closing rounds Ledoux did everything that he knew to save the situation, but his dangerous swings were blocked, and he was often made to miss by his opponent's cleverness, with the result that the contest went the full journey, and Harrison won on points.

He fully deserved his success. He fought the best fight of his career. In the first two rounds he was knocked off his balance by the fury of the Frenchman's attack, but afterwards his defence was wonderful, and his sparring always clever, quick, and effective in gathering points.

Ledoux was several times warned for using his head and hitting low.

In a second International contest Lanz Webster (Scotland) beat Pierre Nicholas (France) in a 15 rounds' contest, the Frenchman being disqualified in the eighth round.

JERRY SHEA OUTPOINTED.

CLEVER CONTEST WON BY DAVIS.

Two well-known Welshmen in Jerry Shea (Newport), of Rugby football fame, and Shoeing-Smith Fred Davis (4th Dragoon Guards) supplied the event of importance at the National Sporting Club, London, last night. They were matched at the middle weight for fifteen rounds, and it was their second meeting. At their previous engagement there was a sensational finish. Shea, after outboxing his man, was all but knocked out when the bell sounded in the last round, but he regained his feet, and was the winner on points.

Last night their encounter went the full distance, and Davis won cleverly on points. It was a hard, keen contest right through, and both men boxed cleverly. There was never much between them. Shea had the better of the first half. Then Davis brightened up, and showed greater pace until the end. The judges disagreed, and the decision rested with the referee, who awarded a good fight to Davis.

INTERESTING MIXED FOURSOMES AT WORPLESDON.

PORTRUSH GOLFERS' FINE PLAY.

Another important annual event was added to a heavy golfing fixture list by the introduction of the open mixed foursomes tournament at Worplesdon yesterday. The entry was a strong one, and included some of the best golfers of both sexes. R. Wethered partnered his sister, Miss Joyce Wethered, and, despite his sprained right hand, they had two easy matches in the first and second rounds. After beating Mrs. Lewis Smith and G. Spens by 6 and 5, they disposed of Miss Gourlay and Captain Angus Hambro by 8 and 7, winning all of the last seven holes. Miss Phyllis Read and Harold Hilton succumbed to Miss Joy Winn and Captain Cecil Hutchison in the first round by 2 and 1, and the latter couple simply outclassed Mrs. Ball and A. Topping in the second round, winning by 9 and 8. Miss Helme and T. Torrance won both their matches quite comfortably.

Major C. O. Hezlet and his sister, Mrs. Cramsie, played fine golf, and accomplished a fine performance in beating Miss Gladys Bastin and A. C. M. Croome by 2 and 1, and then defeated Mrs. Bramwell and V. Pollock by 3 and 2. Robert Harris and Mrs. Harris had a walk-over in the first round, and in the second beat Miss Teacher and Colonel Harvey by two up. Mrs. Patey and Noel Payton also won both their matches with ease.

BILLIARDS.

SMITH v. FALKINER.

Resuming their exhibition game of 16,000 up at Leicester square, London, yesterday afternoon, Smith, at one time, after starting 361 behind, took the lead, with breaks of 207, 171, 68, 195, 99 being off the red ball, 158, 133. Meantime Falkiner had only made 72 and 161, but finished strongly with an incomplete break of 251. Interval scores:—Falkiner, 8,007; Smith, 7,976.

At night the ex-champion did well, aggregating 834 for an average of 52 to 442 and average of 36. The chief breaks were—Smith, 300 (unfinished), 292, and 77; Falkiner, 167, 142, and 62. Closing scores:—Smith (in play), 8,810; Falkiner, 8,449.

NEWMAN v. INMAN.

These professionals resumed this match of 16,000 level at Orme's, Manchester, yesterday afternoon. Both were extremely erratic. Inman, who recorded items of 80, 74, 57 (twice), proved the more consistent, and took the honours. Newman recorded 130 (full), 116, 104. Interval scores:—Newman, 8,467; Inman, 7,003.

There was a capital attendance in the evening, and Inman, playing in faultless style, made a successful attack on his opponent's formidable lead. He recorded items of 470, 78, 168, and 60. He returned an aggregate of 945 against 492, and reduced his arrears to 1,011. Newman made runs of 157 and 163. Closing scores—Newman, 8,959; Inman, 7,948.

PAPER-MAKING IN AUSTRALIA.

The total importation of newsprint into the Commonwealth for the five years ended June 30, 1910, was of the value of £2,909,107; for the five years to June, 1915, £3,974,581; for the five years to June, 1920, £7,100,318, and for the year ended June 30, 1921, £3,460,750.

In the 1910 period Great Britain supplied paper valued at £1,035,742; Canada, £648,808; U.S.A., £676,492, and Scandinavia, £252,558. In the 1915 period the figures were—Great Britain, £1,531,811; Canada, £643,821; U.S.A., £697,286, and Scandinavia, £854,794.

In the 1920 period Great Britain supplied paper valued at £1,052,597; Canada, £1,946,983; U.S.A., £1,786,056; Scandinavia, £2,152,210. The totals for the year ending June last were—Great Britain, £695,890; Canada, £977,698; U.S.A., £265,716, and Scandinavia, £1,337,106.

As a result of investigations in West Australia, good yields of satisfactory pulp for paper-making can, it is claimed, be obtained from several of the common Eucalypts. The director of the Institute of Science and Industry states that the Forestry Departments of four States—New South Wales, Victoria, West Australia, and Tasmania—have agreed to contribute £250 to the cost of the work during the current financial year. The trade paper interests are also contributing to its cost. The Australian Paper Mills, Co., Ltd., Melbourne, has made a grant of £100, while the newspaper proprietors in West Australia have purchased and presented to the Institute an experimental paper-making machine at a cost of over £600. The West Australian Government has offered the Institute a site of 20 acres of land at Crawley, on the Swan River, value about £20,000, as a site for a forest products laboratory, and has also promised to give £5,000 towards the cost of the laboratory if the Commonwealth will establish and maintain it.

AMUSEMENTS IN DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.

"TALES OF HOFFMANN."

Offenbach's favourite operetta, "Tales of Hoffmann," provided the Carl Rosa Opera Company with an excellent start for their Dublin season at the Gaiety Theatre last evening. The company met with a cordial reception from an appreciative audience, which throughout the performance evinced its satisfaction at the efforts of the artists, some of whom have not previously been heard here. If anything, the company seems to have improved in many ways since last hearing. The choruses were fresh in character and intelligently rendered, while a nice balance and tone were maintained. The singers took up their leads quickly and sang with a spirit that commended the stories of the work. The principals generally disclosed an intimacy with their characters and preserved a commendable standard throughout.

The cast, on the whole, was judiciously placed. As Hoffmann Mr. Parry Jones interpreted the part in a manner which won warm commendation. His voice sounded agreeably and his notes rang true and rich. Much pleasure was derived from the singing of Mr. Harrison Cook as Coppelius, characterised as it was by considerable breadth and maturity, while his words were given with dramatic effect. As the doll in the first act Miss Eda Bennie captivated her audience by delightful singing and skilful acting. Miss Hope Laurin, who took the part of Guilietta, in the second act, made the most of her opportunities and sang her music accurately. Miss Enid Cruickshank appeared as Nicklaus. Her principal gift seems to lie in her appreciation of humorous possibilities. She was particularly effective in twitting Hoffmann, by smile and gesture, with his love for a machine, a useful attribute in this part. Mr. Cuthbert Hawley conducted, and secured the requisite cohesion and unity of his forces necessary for a successful performance.

This evening—"Il Trovatore."

THE THEATRE ROYAL.

An excellently varied entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by the two full "houses" last evening at the Theatre Royal. The Merry Four may without hesitation be placed in the front rank. They are four gentlemen who are endowed with cultured vocal powers which they know how to use with artistic effect. Whether in solo or in chorus, they are very delightful, and they add to their splendid singing some nice dances and an element of comicality. Edith Allen, a contralto vocalist, rendered three numbers and played the piano with pleasing effect. Finlay Dunn, who is no stranger to Dublin theatre-goers, had a nice, humorous turn, in which he gave many funny imitations on the piano. Herbert Cowley presents an elaborate and interesting stage picture showing how moving pictures are made. A motion picture studio in miniature is brought before the spectators. About fifteen or sixteen young ladies and gentlemen are taken from the audience, and Mr. Cowley puts them through their paces in a way that keeps the spectators in laughing mood all the time. The camera, aided by powerful lime-lights, works the film, and when the picture is taken the camera and the lights are turned upon the audience. Mr. Cowley promises that the whole picture will be exhibited on the screen this evening. Two very comic tumblers—Cornalla and Eddie—proved themselves very successful merry-makers; and Victor King, a light comedian, was well received.

THE QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The Queen's Theatre was crowded at both performances last night, when one of the late J. W. Whitbread's most popular Irish plays, "Wolfe Tone," was presented by H. J. Condron's company. Most of the nine scenes in the play, which abounds in melodramatic incidents, are laid in France, and are centred upon the intrigues of the leader of the United Irishmen to obtain the aid of Bonaparte for the Republican cause in Ireland. Mr. Charles J. Keogh is the hero of the piece, and presents the character of Tone in a manner which evokes the heartiest applause. As Samuel Turner, the informer, Mr. Ira Allen was equally successful. The Leonard McNally of Mr. P. J. Bourke and the Joey Rafferty of Mr. H. J. Condron are two unpopular figures which are cleverly presented. The General Bonaparte of Mr. Frank Lee is not quite so convincing, but the Josephine of Miss Lily Batty and the Mrs. Wolfe Tone of Miss Evelyn Lund are both clever and graceful.

Most of the other parts are well taken, and the special engagement of the brass and reed band of the Transport Union is quite a feature of the performance. The entire production is presented under the direction of Mr. Ira Allen, and the scenic effects and costumes leave nothing to be desired. The play will be presented nightly during the week at 6.45 and 9.0 p.m.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE.

The entertainment this week is above the average in point of merit. The two performances were well attended last night. Edward Harris, a rag-time violinist, played with fine effect a number of selections, including both Irish and Scotch. The Two Violets, in their novel dances, were rewarded with unstinted applause. Jovan Mersson, an excellent tenor, sang a couple of songs with much acceptance, and the Bouncing Dillons, a jolly couple, took part in a number of surprising bouncing and acrobatic feats, which caused the house to ring with laughter. They stated that prizes would be awarded to boys in the audience who chose to compete in the bouncing feats, and the final competition would take place on Friday night, when the prizes would be distributed. Four boys joined in the competition, and their ludicrous attempts to successfully carry out the tests programme was most enjoyable. Hunter and Bob, in their pantomime absurdities, were warmly appreciated, as were also The Martinis, ballroom dancers; Leah Victoria, comedienne, and Fred Cooper, the Australian whip expert.

THE TIVOLI THEATRE.

A well-balanced variety bill was submitted to large audiences in the Tivoli Theatre last night, the principal "turn" being a comedy sketch, entitled "At 10 o'clock to-morrow," presented by Alex Mee and Company. The production embraced many elements of a laughter-making episode, and was shared in by three artistes, who made the most of their parts. A comedy magical act by Hassan and a lady assistant was deftly carried out, and rewarded by the plaudits of both "houses," and Rex Fox did some clever "stunts" on the wire. Walking without a balancing aid was the simplest of his movements, and this was supplemented by such feats as lighting a cigarette while poised on his slim perch, and contributing selections on the mandoline while in the same position. J. C Glass and Mamie Grant appeared in comedy selections, and Dodge and Podge displayed versatility in their "turn." Marion Scott, male impersonator, sang some songs, which met with popular reception, and Fred Brand appeared in a singing and dancing item.

DR. HEWSON'S ORGAN RECITALS.

At the organ recitals to be given by Dr. George Hewson in St. Patrick's Cathedral this evening at 8 o'clock and on Thursday afternoon next at 4.45 o'clock a request programme will be performed, and will include Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Hollins' Overture in C, Slav March by Tschaikowski, Tannhäuser Overture, Dvorak's Largo from the New World Symphony, Allegro from Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, etc. The offerings will be for the Choir Superannuation Fund.

STEAM DRIFTER "BLOSSOM."

JUDGMENT FOR MORTGAGEES.

In the Admiralty Division, London, yesterday, Mr. Justice Hill disposed of a motion on behalf of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland, as mortgagees of the Dublin steam drifter Blossom, asking for judgment pronouncing for the validity of their mortgage dated September 28, 1920, which was for £600.

It was mentioned that an order for the vessel's appraisement and sale had already been made at the instance of Messrs. William Overy and Sons, ship repairers, of Lowestoft, who in the Truro County Court had obtained judgment against the shipowners in respect of repairs executed to the vessel. A sale, however, had not yet been effected. The present motion for judgment was in default of appearance by the ship owners.

His lordship gave judgment for the mortgagees, with costs, subject to a reference to the Registrar, and reserved all questions of priorities.

SOVIET WARNED.

PROPAGANDA IN THE EAST.

The question of the breaches on the part of the Soviet Government of the terms of the truce agreement by reason of the persistent propaganda against Great Britain in the East was raised by Sir W. Davison yesterday in the House of Commons.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that he had already stated that the Government was examining the correspondence, and at present he was unable to add anything to that statement.

Sir W. Davison—Is the right hon. gentleman aware that a number of traders, among whom was Mr. Urquhart, have recently been to Russia, and found it quite impossible to start trading, by reason of the conditions and restrictions imposed by the Soviet Government?

Mr. Mills—Is it not a fact that Mr. Urquhart was five minutes behind another trader?

Mr. Lloyd George—I have no doubt there are difficulties, but at the same time a certain amount of trade is going to Russia. I quoted some of the Board of Trade figures. They are not up to the expectations formed by some people, but they are considerable.

Colonel Ashley—Is the Government taking any steps to stop Soviet propaganda in the East against this country?

Mr. Lloyd George—Certainly. We are taking most effective steps. We are in communication with the Soviet Government, and a very stern message was sent to them.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The anti-cyclone will maintain fine, but cold, weather for some days over the southern half of the kingdom. In the North the winds will be westerly and the temperature higher than in the South, with much cloud, and rain in places.

Ireland, N.W., N.E.—Wind S.W. to W., moderate; dull, perhaps some rain; visibility fair; rather cold.

Ireland, S.E., S.W.—Light N.W. or N. winds, fair to fine generally; visibility good, apart from morning mist or fog; cold; frost at night.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The Peace Conference met yesterday in London and will meet again to-day. Sinn Fein is seeking a formula which will make further negotiation possible after Mr. de Valera's letter to the Pope.—(P. 5.)

Mr. Joseph Campbell created a scene in a Bray Republican "Court" yesterday when he accused the Administration of "jobbery and corruption," and said that the proceedings were illegal.—(P. 6.)

Sunday trading by licensed vintners was the subject of comment at the Dublin Licensing Sessions yesterday.—(P. 2.)

Mr. John Boyd Dunlop, inventor of the pneumatic tyre, died on Sunday night in Dublin.—(P. 5.)

The Government is carrying out experiments to show what effect rain-washings from tarred roads have upon fish. Tentative results show that a small quantity of tar in the water will not have any effect.—(P. 2.)

Ireland is to be included in the scope of the Unemployed Workers' Dependents' Temporary Provision Bill.—(P. 5.)

Ex-King Karl's forces have been routed in a battle outside Budapest. The leaders fled panic-stricken and the King was arrested. He is confined with Queen Zita in a fortress. Hungary is now quiet.—(P. 5.)

London Stock Markets were naturally very dull with so many adverse influences at work. Loan rates were abnormally easy. The mark was weaker. The only important change in Dublin was a rise of a point in Bank of Ireland Stock.—(P. 7.)

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE.

To-day is the 67th anniversary of the Battle of Balaclava. It was the occasion of the memorable charge of the Light Cavalry Brigade, at which, in the words of Tennyson, "all the world wondered." An inaccurate interpretation of an order caused the General, the Earl of Lucan, to send 670 men, the pick of the British cavalry, to charge the Russian battle front.

Instant compliance followed the order, though officers and men well knew an error had been made, and that they were being sent to certain destruction. At first the Russians were amazed by the advance. As the brigade drew nearer, however, the guns began to pour forth death, but on rode the gallant "Six Hundred," cutting down gunners, spiking guns, and scattering several squadrons of cavalry.

This task accomplished, they turned and galloped back towards the British lines, when the Russian guns were turned on them, and an overwhelming force of Russian cavalry tried to cut off their return. Still unflinchingly they dashed on, and just thirty-five minutes after they set out, the remnant of the brigade had regained its position—but at what cost! Of the 670 only 198 came back. The heroism of their fallen comrades, however, was not in vain, and did more to shake the moral and confidence of the Russian Army than almost any other episode in the campaign.

"TIPS" ON THE RAILWAYS.

Some surprise was expressed last week at the intimation that railway guards were being asked to make a return of the money they secured in "tips" from passengers. It seems, however, that this is not a new departure, for it has been long contended from the Labour side in reference to compensation cases that "tips" must be taken into consideration in determining claims, and the Treasury, in consequence, for some time past have accepted this claim as justification for treating "tips" as earnings. It is, of course, a difficult matter to get a fair return of income from such a source, but the revenue authorities can order a prosecution if no return is made beyond the usual wages.

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S HOSPITAL.

Fleet street, in London, is having a week for the benefit of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and, consequently, some interesting things are happening. You may have your boots cleaned by a lady outside one of the hotels, the lady being carefully masked, so that nobody may recognise her while engaged in such a charitable enterprise. A number of medical students, in operation gowns, hoods, and masks, are everywhere. They are acting as sandwichmen, touts for the bootblack collectors, and anything else that may be needed. Throughout the week there is to be a series of social functions, such as whist drives, a dance, concerts, and a dinner, to bring in funds. The prospects to-day were considered extremely good.

Hungary and the Allies.

Reports of the latest Hapsburg Putsch in Hungary continue to clog the telegraph wires of Europe, but they are so conflicting that an accurate estimate of the situation is impossible. It is asserted variously that the ex-King Karl has been assassinated; that he has entered Budapest in triumph; that the Republican Government has inflicted a heavy defeat on the legitimist forces. Out of the welter of contradiction, however, certain facts emerge with reasonable clarity. Thirty thousand people attended a football match in Budapest on Sunday, for example, and this fact alone is enough to discount most of the stories of popular enthusiasm for the Republican cause. Thirty thousand people will not go to a football match—especially when they happen to be Magyars—while a hated "invader" is thundering at their city's gates. The truth seems to be that the Hungarian Government is in a very awkward predicament. It is honest enough in its desire to get rid of Karl, but is faced with a widespread conspiracy which seems to have played havoc with its authority. There is an element of farce about the whole business which even the underlying tragedy cannot obscure. Virtually all the Hungarians who count are on the young pretender's side. The middle classes have had enough of "democratic" government to last them a life-time, and only from the lower classes of the population has Karl reason to anticipate serious opposition. The Allies, of course, are making a bold show of firmness; but, unfortunately, they made just as bold a show last year in Greece, and still they could not prevent the restoration of the unspeakable "Tino."

Two factors, however, make the case of Hungary more serious than the case of Greece. In the first place, whatever be the intention of the Allies—that is to say, Britain, France, and Italy—the Little Entente is determined to frustrate the Hapsburg plot. Czecho-Slovakia is mobilising her forces with the utmost speed, and both Rumania and Jugo-Slavia have several old scores to settle with the Magyars. Unless, therefore, the Allies translate words into deeds, and expel this royal mischief-maker without further ceremony, war will become inevitable, and the peoples of Central Europe, who have been nursing grievances against one another for the past three years, will be at one another's throats within a week. In that event the taking of sides would be very difficult to avoid. Italy, for instance, although her Ambassador in Paris denies any collusion with Karl, stands to Hungary in a similar relation to that of France to Poland. Austria is her bête noir, and, if the Little Entente takes the field, it will have the moral, if not the active, support of the Viennese Government. The international complications which would be bound to follow a war in Central Europe would be such as to wreck every treaty in existence. The other factor, which cannot be ignored, is Germany. If Karl is allowed to ascend the vacant throne at Budapest the German Monarchists will be almost certain to make a bid for a Hohenzollern restoration in Berlin. The suggestion may seem to be fantastic, and three months ago, no doubt, it would have been fantastic; but recently there has been a drastic change in German opinion.

The Wirth Government owed its comparatively long tenure of office to the possibility that it would be able to secure a favourable decision for Germany in regard to Upper Silesia. As soon as the real decision became known it fell. No Government would have survived the loss of Kattowitz and Konigshütte, and, despite the report that a new Cabinet will be formed on Thursday, the condition of the mark exchange shows that anything may happen. The alternatives to the present system of government are Bolshevism and the Monarchy. The former may be ignored at once. The Germans never will be Bolsheviks, whatever else may be their fate. There is little doubt, unfortunately, that recent events have strengthened the Monarchists' hand, and that, if there were the slightest hope of success, an attempt would be made to restore not the ex-Kaiser, but, possibly, one of his younger sons, or his grandsons. The mere attempt would be a calamity for Europe; nevertheless, it is not impossible. The German loves Ordnung above all things. This word connotes more than its English equivalent "order." Not only must everything be in its proper place, as in a hausfrau's kitchen, but stability must be the basis of the people's life. In the German's mind Ordnung is connected inseparably with the old Monarchy, and the recent elections in Berlin are an indication of his discontent with the more volatile system of popular government. The Allies cannot afford to take any risk in this respect. If they do not know now, they will know in a few days, to what extent the Magyars' resistance to Karl is genuine. If the Hungarian Government can arrest and expel him, so much the better; but, if it cannot, or will not, take the necessary steps, the Allies must stop at nothing to secure his removal.

Ireland's Unemployed.

The Government has made a belated—but, nevertheless, welcome—admission of its obligations to the Irish unemployed. On the 19th instant, when he outlined the Cabinet's plans for the relief of distress and the stimulation of trade, Mr. Lloyd George said that the Unemployed Workers' Dependents' Temporary Provision Bill would not apply to this country. Last night Dr. Macnamara announced that the Government's decision on that point had been reversed and that the measure would come into operation in Ireland on November 5th. The news will be welcomed heartily in Ulster. In Belfast alone there are some 50,000 persons who cannot find work, and in the neighbouring towns about 28,000 men and women are in the same plight. The linen industry has lost its war-time prosperity, and many mills are virtually idle; while the shipyards, although not in such a serious position as some of the English undertakings, are suffering from the general dearth of orders. Ireland still makes contributions to all Imperial funds, and, so long as those conditions obtain, it has the right to demand the benefit of all Imperial grants. On November 5th every unemployed man in Ireland who is covered by the National Insurance Act will be able to draw a sum not exceeding nine shillings per week, in addition to his own "dole" of 15s., for the support of his dependents. The money will be raised by increasing the contributions made by employers and employés under the Act and by a grant from the State, and the benefits will run for a period of at least sixteen weeks. Dr. Macnamara refused to make an explicit statement about the application of the Government's other schemes to Ireland. Mr. Lloyd George spoke very vaguely on this point on the 19th instant, and it is time that the position was made clear. One plan is to allot a sum of £10,000,000 for the promotion of works of public utility, like the drainage of areas which are flooded when heavy rain falls. Work of this kind is needed urgently in many parts of Ireland.

Mr. Dunlop's Invention.

Few inventors have lived to see the full development of the idea which made them famous; but Mr. John Boyd Dunlop, whose death we announce to-day, was one of the few. He owed this good fortune partly to his long span of years, but chiefly to the speed with which the new age turns inventions to the uses of industry and the money market. Mr. Dunlop made the first pneumatic tyre for a child's amusement. Within a few years it had revolutionised the sport and industry of cycling. Then—still as a direct result of his invention—the swift motor car became possible and inspired the internal combustion engine, which in its turn endowed man with the supremacy of the air. We may say, without straining fact, that the air defences of England during the war and the flight from London to Australia were made feasible by an afternoon's work in a back-garden in Belfast. Mr. Dunlop witnessed and, being a philosopher, pondered all this marvellous procession of human progress. It would have been a less remarkable thing if that other Scottish inventor, James Watt, had lived to see to-day's vast railway systems take shape, like the bottled genie, out of the steam of his mother's tea-kettle. The quiet veterinary surgeon's invention marked, and will continue to mark, a new epoch in the history of mankind. It has affected every phase of modern transport. It has changed every aspect of war—and, perhaps, in the long run, will help to abolish war. It has altered men's habits and modes of life by re-discovering the countryside, extending the suburbs of cities and towns, and reviving the Roman art of road engineering. Judged by the impress of his work on civilisation, Mr. Dunlop was one of the world's great figures. He has influenced the plain citizen's life more than Napoleon ever influenced it. Yet the world is a curious place, and no honorific gratitude came the way of this epoch-making man.

A Soldier's Honour.

A French libel action has served such an excellent purpose that we are sure that even the newspaper which lost it does not regret the verdict. In 1916 Lieutenant Herduin and Lieutenant Milan fell back after a defence of their post which was proved at a later date to have been heroic. For this retirement they were sentenced to death and were shot without delay. The instructions for their execution were given by telephone and there was no trial of any sort. Since that time Lieutenant Herduin's widow has striven unceasingly to clear her husband's character. The task seemed to be hopeless by reason of difficulties in procedure. There had been no courtmartial or other inquiry, and, therefore, no verdict which could be reversed was on record. Recently, however, an account of the retirement, which reflected on her husband, was published in a Paris newspaper. Madame Herduin brought an action in the civil courts and called witnesses who testified to the dead man's valour. She won her case, and the paper, which had acted in good faith, was mulcted in small damages. Thus, after five years, a woman's patience and watchfulness have removed the stigma of cowardice from the memory of two brave men.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

A rumour comes from Bucharest that Princess Marie of Rumania is betrothed to King Boris of Bulgaria. The Princess is the younger daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, and will be twenty-two next January; and King Boris, who ascended the Bulgarian Throne on the abdication of his father in 1918, is six years her senior. Queen Marie of Rumania left Bucharest a few days ago for Switzerland.

During his visit to Dublin last week, General Sir Charles Harrington was the guest of Captain and Mrs. Poë at Santry Court. The Earl and Countess of Portarlington were the guests last week of the Hon. Mrs. Ronald Greville at Polesden Lacey, Dorking. Lord and Lady Lovat, who have been paying visits in Ireland, will return to England to-day.

The Duke of Connaught attended the private view of the exhibition which is now being held by Sir John and Lady Lavery at the Alpine Gallery, Mill street, London. Among other visitors were the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, the Marquis and Marchioness of Crewe, the Countess of Pembroke and Lady Winifred Pennoyer, the Countess of Gosford, Lady Constance Leslie, Lord Fermoy, and Sir Victor and Lady Warrender.

Sir John Lavery's long residence in London has somewhat obscured the fact that he is an Irishman, being the son of Mr. Henry Lavery, of Belfast. In addition to being a member of the Royal Academies of England, Scotland, and Ireland, he is a member of the Société des Beaux Arts, Paris, and a Chevalier of the Orders of the Crown of Italy and of Leopold of Belgium. Lady Lavery, who is a clever artist, is the widow of Mr. Trudeau, of New York, and was married to Sir John Lavery in 1910. Sir John's only daughter by his first marriage is now the wife of the Master of Sempill.

The marriage took place last week at St. Peter's Church, Ealing, of Lieutenant Cecil Morton, M.C., Worcester Regiment, and Miss Violet Kaye, who is the only daughter of Major and Mrs. Kaye, grand-daughter of the late Sir William Kaye, C.B., K.C., and niece of Mrs. Villiers Tuthill and Lady Cullinan.

A marriage will shortly take place between Edward Roche, B.A., B.E., late M.Inst.C.E., second surviving son of the late Captain Charles Philip Roche, of Ballyagran, and Rathkeale, Co. Limerick, and Marjorie, second daughter of Colonel Maurice Spencer, C.M.G., of Lower Hardres, Kent.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place in November, between T. A. Gregg, L.R.C.P. and S.E., Graystone, Newbridge, Monmouthshire, eldest son of Thomas Gregg, Hazelwood, Clough, Co. Antrim, and Susan Johnston (Cissie), elder daughter of Cox Cotton, Brierfield, Roscommon.

THE PASSING OF A PROFESSION—I.

LAW IN THE MELTING-POT.

(BY "SOLICITOR.")

On the Irish legal stage a comic opera is being performed. The parsimonious North is spending lavishly on its new judiciary (it will have five High Court judges, costing £16,000 a year, and law officers, costing at least £5,000 a year), though it knows perfectly well that the judicial processes of the North could be started and kept in motion for less than one-half of this sum. This, of course, is mere political propaganda. The North wants to show forth possession of a costly, large, full-blast Government in all its branches. Each of its structures has "Noli me tangere" wrought all over its design. Should the Northern community, however, at any time feel secure, it will replace the present judicial arrangements by others of a much more modest and businesslike pattern.

In the South, also, a judicial system is in operation purely for propaganda purposes. A de facto Republican Government is asserted to have been established on the 21st January, 1919; a judicial system, of some kind or another, is the logical result of that claim. The career of these courts has been chequered to the last degree, for in their brief life they have passed through three phases. Their beginning took the form and nature of arbitration proceedings, held openly under the palm tree without Government interference. Later they matured into organised courts, with definite (and often severe) sanctions behind them, until they were sternly suppressed by the Government. The protection of the truce has brought them forth stronger than ever. The Chief Secretary says that they will be stopped; the truce makes no express provision in regard to them, nor, as I incline to think, is their cessation an implied term in it.

The difficulty thus created may be got over by some via media whereby their operations will be conducted, if not in secret, certainly with less blowing of trumpets. No fair-minded Republican will deny that the existence of these courts rests on a desire to destroy the British courts, and thereby to impair and weaken, pro tanto, the efficiency of British rule, rather than on any desire to promote the ends of justice. In other words, these courts, presided over mainly by men of no mark in their profession—this implies no offence, for their judges are all very young men, and in the law mediocrity is seldom achieved before thirty and distinction very rarely before forty—are merely of political origin, and have within them none of the elements of permanence.

But while this is so, these courts have done their business with despatch, finality, and cheapness, and in estimating the chances of the legal profession of the future Ireland it must be borne in mind that a public taste for these qualities in legal procedure, once acquired, will not be lost and must be gratified. Then, again, we have in the South of Ireland the British Government's judicial system pottering along, at great cost, with little to do, its judges (High Court and County Court alike) working, perhaps, not more than 150 days a year. The whole business is very humorous, but, politics quite apart, it has a tragic side, too; for, if our British jurisprudence is to be swallowed up by the Aaron's Rod of an Irish-speaking Brehon Law-Code Napoleon-system, the glories of a bench and bar which produced names that commanded respect all over the world, and which, with all their faults, have a great tradition behind them, are definitely at an end.

A reform of our judicial system is long overdue; it is slow, costly, cumbrous. Apart from the natural conservatism of the legal profession, the reason why nothing substantial was done in the way of Irish legal reform is obvious. We have had a great number of Chief Secretaries for Ireland since the Union; but we never had an Irish Chief Secretary, as the country refused to accept or work the Union. None of these English birds of passage had, or was expected to have, a very long term of office; each of them had great difficulties of a more or less pressing character. Legal reform was a secondary matter anyhow, and, if it took place, the bar might breed rebellion. So there the matter lies to the present date. We have in Southern Ireland twelve High Court judges and many County Court judges; the County Court judges sit only four times a year, with the exception of the Recorders of Dublin and Belfast, who really do work full time. The delay and cost of litigation are enormous, and quite out of proportion, in most cases, to the importance of the controversy, and in great part avoidable.

I have no desire to labour a point so obvious, much less to encumber it with detail. But let me mention a few causes of delay:—(1) Too many formal pleadings and too much time allowed between each—it takes about four months to get a trial in the simplest High Court case with the utmost expedition. (2) Vacations too many and too long. (3) Too much time left for notice of appeal. (4) Too many appeals. Before the passing of the Home Rule Act an appeal lay from a final order in the King's Division first to the King's Bench Divisional Court and thence to the Court of Appeal. The situation is now worse; for in all cases (King's Bench and Chancery) there is an appeal to the Provincial Courts of Appeal and thence to the High Court of Appeal. (5) Judgments reserved too often and too long. (6) Local venue cases can be tried only in March or July. (7) In the County Courts the intervals between sittings are too long. (8) Appeals from the County Court to Judge of Assize cause great delay. My clients complain more of the law's delay—in that respect agreeing with Shakespeare—than of its cost. But its cost is too much: (1) A debt of over £50 can be litigated only in the High Court—the costs of each side are always more than £50. (2) Witnesses from the country hanging round Dublin—or sometimes having to go backwards or forwards—for the hearing or the adjourned hearing. (3) The tendency to employ three counsel.

The need for reform is obvious: what form should it take? I want to make one point quite clear. The great loss to the community in litigation is the delay, for delay means suspense and its consequent lack of effort in business. A man can no more apply his energy to business or embark on fresh enterprise when his resources, or it may be his reputation, are imperilled by the issue of a law suit than can a merchant deal with Germany or Austria while the mark or krone bobs up and down in the most uncertain fashion. So, therefore, it is better for a community to have a bench overmanned, as in Ireland, than to have it undermanned, as in England, where the litigants' whole future is in a precarious state for a year or, perhaps, two. If the bench is fully manned, there is no reason why, with properly reformed procedure, the litigant should not emerge from the waters of litigation before his faculties are entirely benumbed thereby. For this reason I do not favour a cutting to the bone of the existing judicial establishment, though I do favour, as will presently appear, a radical reform of it.

CITY OF LIGHT AND LAUGHTER.

Paris is the city of light and laughter. The Englishman wonders what the Frenchman means when, asked his impression of London, he shrugs his shoulders and replies that it is a wonderful place, but so triste. It is only after visiting Paris that the Englishman can understand the Frenchman's meaning. He would scarcely employ the word "sad" in making a comparison, yet he realises there is something about the Boulevards that is lacking in Oxford street or the Strand.

The explanation is that France is the land of eternal childhood, the place where no one ever grows up, and that Paris is the capital of the country of real happiness. A friend of mine who had recently spent a fortnight in Paris was describing his experiences. He complained of hotel and restaurant charges and the abominable tipping system. "You are 'done' from the moment you arrive in Paris until you get into the boat train at the Gare du Nord," he said. Then, as an afterthought, he added: "But it is a pleasure to be done by a Frenchman; he's so beastly cheerful about it."

My friend was not exaggerating. There is a cheerful politeness in the atmosphere that loosens the purse strings of the most hardened miser. You feel that you could not possibly reward the smiling waiter with anything less than a five franc note, and, having parted with the billet, you immediately think of the modest twopence you are accustomed to push under the plate at your favourite restaurant at home. But there is something disarming in the atmosphere of Paris that makes a regret impossible, and it is only when you step out of the train at Victoria that you begin to reproach yourself with the extravagance that has marked your holiday.

* * * * *

In England one of the first lessons in the social education of the modern youth or girl is the necessity of controlling the emotions. It is just as bad form to display in public too much happiness as it is to give vent to sorrow. In France one neither weeps nor rejoices in solitude. Sorrow is something which you share with your friends and so quickly get over it. Your happiness is imparted to others, and so spreads like the ring in the pond which marks the fall of a stone.

It would be hard to find an explanation. Perhaps, it is that in England the modern idea is that smiles and laughter are like lollipops and dolls—something to be left exclusively to children. In France there are all too few children, and men and women play their games and share their pleasures. One has only to walk into the Bois de Boulogne any afternoon to see bearded men playing at hand-ball with sturdy little fellows of seven and eight, and matronly-looking dames joining whole-heartedly in the games of their little charges.

It is all very amusing to the phlegmatic Englishman, but when he returns to his native land he misses the wholesome laughter, and as he glances along the smoke-begrimed buildings of his beloved London he realises that the Frenchman is right. There is something triste about the picture after all.

FLANEUR.

LONDON LETTER.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

Mr. M. Collins, when he arrived in London from Dublin this morning, was soon in conference with his colleagues. It is said that he did not anticipate a breakdown of the Conference to-night. His confidence was justified, for there is to be a further meeting to-morrow, when the Irish delegates will submit a formula to enable the Conference to continue. The outlook is black, but while there is life there is hope.

Public interest in the conference to-day was marked. It was held at too late an hour for any great demonstration by the public, but throughout the day fears were generally expressed that it would break down. I am sorry to say that not a few opinions were expressed that it would be best if it did. The feeling of the people here has undergone a rather marked change since Thursday, and Mr. de Valera's action is cited as an indication that Sinn Fein thinks that it is a conqueror and that this country has been beaten in diplomacy and in the field of arms. That feeling will soon abate if it becomes recognised that there is really an attempt to arrive at an understanding, but the Government and the Irish delegates will have to go very carefully. The attack upon the King has struck very deeply.

Political circles continue to discuss the possibility of a general election in the near future. If the work of the Conference can be safely continued, it is regarded as unlikely that the Prime Minister would make an appeal to the electorate just now; but, if the discussions break down, he could scarcely avoid an immediate appeal to the country. If definite action had to be taken in Ireland upon the point that Ireland must remain an integral portion of the British Empire, he would, as I pointed out last night, require the support of the electorate in any action which he might think necessary. This would be essential not only from a domestic point of view, but from that of international conditions as well. After an appeal to the country the Prime Minister, if returned to power, would be in a position to face the world with the considered opinion of the British people behind him that it was necessary, for reasons of safety alone, that Ireland should not be allowed to break away from the Empire.

A GREAT ORGANISER.

It was noticed in the House to-day that Colonel Leslie Wilson, one of the principal Coalition Whips, was engaged for some time in earnest conversation with Sir George Younger, the head of the Conservative Central Office, and one of the most astute organisers in the country. It is noted that, when addressing the National Unionist Association on Saturday, Sir George expressed the personal opinion that, in the event of a breakdown of the Conference, a general election could not be avoided.

The Unionist members who are opposed to the Irish policy of the Government held a further meeting this evening, and decided to place at once on the paper the resolution drawn up last week protesting against the Conference with the Sinn Feiners, and declaring that no proposal ought to have been made to them without the sanction of Parliament. As already reported, the Government hopes to be able to give a day next week for a debate on the position of Ulster, and the promoters of the above-mentioned resolution intend to ask for a day also. It may be added that the Unionist Reconstruction Committee have set up again their sub-committee on Irish affairs. This body met to-day for the purpose of drafting a resolution favourable to the safeguarding of Ulster; but, in view of the day's developments concerning the Conference, it was decided to adjourn, without taking any action, till Thursday.

The omission of Ireland from the Bill for extending temporary help to the wives and children of unemployed workmen appears to have been due to a misunderstanding of the situation. The omission, as the Minister of Labour announced this afternoon, was now repaired. Three-fourths of the operations of the measures in Ireland will apply to the Northern area. This arises from the fact that agricultural labour and domestic service are not in Ireland included in the original unemployment insurance scheme, and they are the preponderant industries of the Southern area. It seems probable that the Northern one will be soon able to take over this temporary help scheme for itself, being enabled to do so by the early transfer of the necessary services, as provided under the Government of Ireland Act, to its Government. During the past few days, it is interesting to note, the question of extending the Bill to Ireland has been discussed between the Minister of Labour for Northern Ireland, together with several of the Ulster members, on the one hand, and the Prime Minister, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Dr. Macnamara on the other.

DR. D'ARCY'S VISIT.

Dr. D'Arcy, Archbishop of Armagh, is on a visit to London, and has been seen much about the West End of late, being a constant visitor to the Athenæum Club. Dr. D'Arcy will soon be going to France for the unveiling of the Ulster Brigade memorial by Lord Carson.

It seems that the ex-Emperor Karl, by his attempt on Hungary, will be rendered a homeless man. Switzerland does not want him back again, and will probably refuse him entrance should he ask for it. He has twice deceived the Swiss Government, which has been most gracious to him, and his home at Hertenstein, near Lucerne, will be closed to him personally. It is quite probable that the ex-Empress Zita and her children may be allowed to remain, since the Swiss Government does not war with women and children, and allows a very wide latitude to those who take refuge within its borders. Consequently, nothing will remain for Karl but banishment to some secluded spot, and this morning St. Helena was suggested. His easy journey from Switzerland points a moral for the Allies. The ex-Kaiser is much nearer to Germany than was the ex-Emperor to Hungary, and an aeroplane flight would be just as easy. Half an hour would see the ex-Kaiser back in Germany could he secure a machine to take him during the night.

"Poy," the artist of the Evening News, illustrates this possibility with a cartoon showing the ex-Kaiser as a small boy at a cinema, eagerly watching a picture of Karl as a desperado riding a broncho, and firing off two revolvers at once. The legend is "The Peril of the Penny Dreadful Film. It puts ideas into small boys' heads."

Captain Stanley Wilson, M.P., who was a prisoner with the Austrians during the war, expressed some regret in the Lobby to-day that the Allies seemed determined not to allow King Karl into Hungary on any terms. Karl, he said, is very friendly to this country, and to the Great Entente generally, and, if there was any fear that, if re-admitted to the Hungarian Throne, he would set up again the alliance with Germany, it might be safely dismissed. When he succeeded his father as Emperor he at once got rid of all Germans and German sympathisers about the Court, and was, of course, a party to his wife's attempt to make, through Prince Sixt of Bourbon, a separate peace with the Allies. In these circumstances, Captain Wilson thought that the Hungarians should be left to decide for themselves whether they would have Karl to rule over them again or not.

A general epidemic of colds has broken out in London owing to the sudden change in the weather, and chemists report a great demand for quinine and cough mixtures. It seems that people have been slow in changing their clothes to meet the sudden cold, and, consequently, have taken chill.

CONFERENCE STILL IN BEING.

SEEKING A FORMULA.

ONUS CAST UPON SINN FEIN.

PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

The Irish Peace Conference is not as yet abandoned, but its future turns upon the finding of a formula which will render a continuance of negotiation possible.

The onus of finding the formula has been placed upon the Sinn Fein representatives by the Prime Minister.

Such is the result of yesterday's meetings in Downing street. The Conference, in the circumstances, will meet to-day at 4 p.m.

In the Commons yesterday the Premier described Mr. de Valera's letter to the Pope as a challenge to the Government. He added that the Government could not recede from the position it had taken up, and that only on the basis of a recognition of the King was further negotiation possible.

TO RESUME TO-DAY.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Shortly before 8 o'clock last evening the following official communiqué was issued from Downing street:—

The seventh session of the Conference on Ireland was held to-day at 10 Downing street, S.W., at 5 p.m.

There were present:—Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead, Mr. Churchill, Sir L. Worthington-Evans, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Sir Gordon Hewart, British representatives; Mr. A. Griffith, Mr. M. Collins, Mr. R. C. Barton, Mr. E. J. Duggan, and Mr. Gavan Duffy, Irish representatives.

There were also present:—Mr. Thomas Jones and Sir Edward Grigg, British Secretaries, with Mr. E. Childers and Mr. J. Chartres, Irish Secretaries.

The Conference adjourned until 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

DELEGATES ARRIVE.

The Sinn Fein delegates arrived at 10 Downing street punctually at 5 o'clock yesterday for the resumed Conference. Mr. Lloyd George had in the meantime been joined by Mr. Chamberlain, Sir Hamar Greenwood, and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans.

At the time of the arrival of the Sinn Fein delegates the Prince of Wales, who had gone to say "good-bye" to Mr. Lloyd George, had not left No. 10.

A crowd assembled on the opposite side of Downing street and cheered the delegates as they left their cars. It closed in upon the cars, and there were shouts of "Up, de Valera." There was no counter-demonstration, although the crowd was largely composed of Britons.

The police shortly afterwards cleared Downing street, save for those who had definite business there.

Mr. Churchill, the Lord Chancellor, and Sir Gordon Hewart subsequently arrived, but they were in ample time, seeing that the delegates were not invited to meet in the Cabinet room until just before 5.30.

A JOINT COMMITTEE.

About half an hour after the Conference met, the Lord Chancellor, Sir L. Worthington-Evans, and Sir Gordon Hewart left 10 Downing street, passed via the Treasury into Whitehall, thereby avoiding the crowd, and went in the direction of the House of Commons. Mr. Churchill also left by the same exit, and entered the Colonial Office by a side door.

Shortly after the departure of the British Cabinet Ministers it was stated unofficially, but apparently authoritatively, that the main Conference had broken up for the time being, and that a Committee, with representatives of both sides upon it, was sitting separately, and would report to the full Conference.

Apparently only Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Chamberlain of the British delegates were left in conference with the Irish representatives for the purpose of the Committee, but Mr. Churchill and Sir Laming Worthington Evans returned to No. 10 shortly after 7 o'clock.

SEEKING A FORMULA.

SITUATION NOT HOPELESS.

The various British representatives who left the Conference when the Joint Committee sat, and subsequently returned to 10 Downing street, were engaged with the Prime Minister until 8.15, when Mr. Lloyd George left for the House of Commons.

A small crowd of people—possibly about 200—some of whom carried Sinn Fein flags, waited at the bottom of Downing street until all the delegates had left, but there was no further demonstration.

Probably it was partly due to the presence of this crowd, and to the earlier demonstration, and partly from a desire to avoid conveying the impression of a break-up of the Conference, which might have resulted from their early departure, that some of the British delegates passed out into Whitehall through the Treasury buildings.

Until they returned, after 7 o'clock, the majority of the waiting people had no idea that they had temporarily left the building, and many were non-plussed at seeing the re-arrival of Ministers who, as they imagined, had been all the time in the Conference Chamber.

As to the course of the proceedings, it was officially stated that both sides had agreed to observe entire reticence beyond the bare statement of the attendance at the Conference and the fact of the adjournment until this afternoon.

WHAT HAPPENED.

The Press Association understands, however, that what happened was that the Prime Minister made it clear in the presence of the full Conference that an agreement upon a definite formula was imperative if the Conference were to proceed with any hope of success, and that a Committee of representatives of both sides was forthwith appointed to consider a formula which would be mutually acceptable.

Whether that objective was reached is by no means certain. It would be a mistake to assume that the crisis is over. But it is all to the good that an immediate deadlock was not reached.

The mere fact that the delegates meet again to-day, whether it be to discuss formulas or to proceed with the consideration of the main question, is sufficient to give pause to the pessimistic attitude resulting from Mr. de Valera's telegram.

While the two sides to the negotiations feel that their respective attitudes do not preclude further meeting round the Conference table, there is at least some hope of ultimately finding a way out of an admittedly delicate and difficult situation.

MR. COLLINS'S RETURN.

Mr. Michael Collins, says the Press Association, arrived in London in the early hours of yesterday morning. He spent the week-end in consultation with Mr. de Valera and other Ministers of Dail Eireann, and placed before them the question raised by Mr. Lloyd George.

NO ULSTER DEVELOPMENT.

NORTHERN CABINET MEETS.

The Cabinet of Northern Ireland met yesterday afternoon at Cabin Hill, Belfast, Sir James Craig presiding, says our Belfast Correspondent. All the Ministers were in attendance, except the Right Hon. J. M. Andrews, Minister of Labour, who was detained in London in connection with the negotiations with the Imperial Government relating to the extension of unemployment benefit to the area of Northern Ireland. There has, I understand, been no development of the Irish situation in so far as Ulster is concerned, and the meeting dealt with a number of departmental matters.

ORGANISING VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. Lloyd George, in a written reply to Colonel Penry Williams, states that he is informed that in certain districts in Northern Ireland a movement is on foot to revive the organisation known as the Ulster Volunteer Force. He is not aware, however, that any action has yet been taken by the promoters of the movement which could be regarded as a breach of the provisions of the Government of Ireland Act.

GRAVE CHALLENGE.

PREMIER ON MR. DE VALERA.

Sir W. Davison yesterday asked the Prime Minister whether his attention had been called to the telegram sent to the Pope by Mr. de Valera, which had been published in the special edition of the Sinn Fein Irish Bulletin, in which Mr. de Valera repudiated allegiance to His Majesty the King, whom he described as the British King—on the part of the people of Ireland, and reiterated that the independence of Ireland had been formally proclaimed by the elected representatives of the people of Ireland, and ratified by subsequent plebiscites, and whether in these circumstances the Government intended to proceed with the Conference with the delegates of Southern Ireland, who had themselves taken the oath of allegiance to an Irish Republic. (Cheers.)

Mr. Lloyd George—I have read the telegram referred to, and its publication, especially in the middle of the peace negotiations, constitutes a grave challenge. The position of the Government on the question involved in the telegram has been made abundantly clear, and we do not propose to recede from it, and the Conference cannot proceed on any other basis. (Chers.)

LETTERS TO BE PUBLISHED.

Sir John Butchr yesterday asked the Prime Minister whether he would give instructions that the letters and telegrams which recently passed between the Prime Minister and the member for East Clare on the subject of Ireland should be published in the form of a White Paper, and thus be accessible to members of the House and the public.

Mr. Lloyd George—Yes, sir. The earlier correspondence relating to the proposals of His Majesty's Government for an Irish settlement has been published, and I have arranged for the issue of a further White Paper concerning the supplementary correspondence.

Mr. Pennefather—Will that White Paper contain the last letter sent to the Pope?

Mr. Lloyd George—We have nothing to do with that.

Viscount Wolmer—Would it not be desirable that the Government should have something to do with it?

There was no reply.

EARLY SPECULATIONS.

CRITICAL OUTLOOK.

Writing early yesterday, the Press Association said:—It is understood that the position is as critical as it could possibly be. It is understood that the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries will not repudiate Mr. de Valera's telegram to the Pope, but it is possible that they will give an answer which will point out that the message was merely a reiteration of the position which they had taken up from the beginning, but that they are willing to enter into a Conference with the hope of ascertaining whether Irish aspirations can be reconciled with the Commonwealth of the British Empire.

It is expected that Mr. Lloyd George will insist on a clear answer to the question—"Are you prepared to enter into an agreement which must include allegiance to the British Crown?" On their reply will hang the breakdown or otherwise of the negotiations.

WAY OUT MAY BE FOUND.

Serious as the position undoubtedly is, there was a pronounced belief in authoritative quarters this morning that, in spite of the uncompromising tone of Mr. de Valera's message to the Pope, a way will be found out of the threatened impasse.

The impression that the Irish delegates in London had no knowledge of the nature of the Sinn Fein leader's telegram appears to be beyond question, and it was pointed out that the fact that the Irish delegates are plenipotentiaries, and therefore in a position to ignore outside intervention, would, apart from any other consideration, enable them to find a satisfactory solution. Everything now, it is said, depends upon the statement which Mr. Michael Collins is expected to make at the full Conference regarding the interview which he has had with Mr. de Valera.

MINISTERS CONFER.

There was a meeting of the British representatives at the Conference during the morning. They assembled at 10 Downing street at 12.30, and the meeting lasted three-quarters of an hour. In addition to the British Ministers, there were also present four officials from Dublin Castle and the Irish Office, including Sir John Anderson and Mr. Cope, but there were no military representatives.

It was announced that no statement would be issued, but it was understood that the Ministers were considering the attitude which should be taken at the evening conference.

AGAINST NEGOTIATIONS.

PARLIAMENTARY PROTEST.

The motion drawn up by members of Parliament opposed to the present negotiations between the Government and the Sinn Fein representatives was handed in at the Table of the House last night, with the names of about 40 members. It is in the following terms:—

"That this House views with grave apprehension the action of the Government in entering into negotiations with delegates from Southern Ireland who have taken an oath of allegiance to an Irish Republic, and have repudiated the authority of the Crown, and, in view of the fact that an Act of Parliament for the settlement of the relations between Great Britain and Ireland was passed as recently as last year, is of opinion that no proposals for the Government of Southern Ireland should be made without the sanction of Parliament."

SINN FEIN M.P. AND PEACE.

CLAIMS OF THE NORTH-EAST.

Mr. Ernest Blythe, M.P., "Minister of Trade," Dail Eireann, speaking at Belfast last night, said that what was sometimes called the Ulster problem arose from the hostility of the big majority of the Protestant population of two or three counties in the North-East towards the Roman Catholic minority. That problem had, as it were, grown up within the past one hundred years. The people of North-East Ulster had no just claim to separation from the remainder of their fellow-countrymen. He did not think that Dail Eireann or the majority of the people of Ireland would object to any reasonable measure of local autonomy that the people in any section of the country might desire, provided that the measure did not injure the security or welfare of the remainder of the country, and provided also that the people who asked for it were fit to exercise it.

But the question of these people in the North-East corner of Ireland being qualified to run any form of Government was one about which there might be a considerable degree of doubt. Certainly, in all they had done recently there was nothing to show their fitness to run a Government of any sort.

With regard to the London Conference, there had been some references made to President de Valera's telegram. "Now," said the speaker, "if there is any crisis—I do not know whether there is or not, and I do not care—if there is any crisis it was not caused by President de Valera's telegram. But one thing I will say regarding the telegram is that the comments about it in the English papers show that it was very necessary.

If, he concluded, in the course of the negotiations now proceeding, it is possible to get a satisfactory and honourable settlement, you can rely on it that that settlement will be obtained and accepted. If it is not possible to obtain such a satisfactory and honourable settlement, then there is nothing for it but to go on until we get it.

REPUBLICAN COURTS.

Although their proceedings are at present conducted in private, the Republican Parish Courts in Dublin sit regularly and dispose of a number of cases at each sitting.

The Northern Court meets at 42 North Great George's street and the Southern at 41 York street.

The Northern Court sat yesterday, and will also sit to-day and on Thursday and Saturday. The Southern Court meets to-day, and other sittings will probably take place to-morrow and on Friday and Saturday.

REPUBLICAN COLOURS.

PREMIER AND FOLLY.

ILLEGAL COURTS.

(FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Monday.

The Lord Chancellor has rarely visited the House of Commons since his elevation to the Peerage. Consequently, his appearance in the Feers' Gallery to-day, in company with Lord Desart, was interpreted as meaning that an important pronouncement on the Irish situation was expected. And so it turned out.

There was a little preliminary flutter when Mr. Rupert Gwynne asked whether the terms of the truce permitted the display of the Republican colours over the house occupied by the Sinn Fein delegates in London.

Mr. Lloyd George said that, according to his information, they were not so displayed. Several members jumped up to assure him that they were, and the Prime Minister then said, speaking with marked vehemence, that, if so, he could not imagine why all these follies were perpetrated at a time when they were engaged in seeking peace.

Afterwards, by private notice, Sir William Davison inquired if the Prime Minister had seen Mr. de Valera's message to the Pope, and if the Government intended to proceed with the negotiations.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that he had seen the message, and that its publication during the peace negotiations constituted "a grave challenge." The Government's position had been made perfectly clear, and they did not intend to recede from it. The Conference could not proceed on any other basis.

PAINFUL SENSATION.

These words, delivered in the gravest tone, created a painful sensation. It was generally felt that unless the Irish delegates were in a position either to disavow Mr. de Valera or to explain away his utterance—an unlikely contingency—to-night's meeting of the Conference would be the last.

There were a few, however, who, relying on the Prime Minister's skill as a conciliator, and his keen desire for a peaceful settlement, hoped almost against hope that he would find a formula which, while safeguarding the Government's standpoint, would be acceptable to the Irish delegates, and enable the Conference to proceed. It became known later on, however, that the Prime Minister had placed the onus on the Sinn Fein delegates of finding a formula before further progress is made.

The only other reference to Ireland was aroused by an inquiry of Sir John Butcher, regarding the announcement of the intention to hold a certain Sinn Fein court. Sir Hamar Greenwood, speaking with his usual emphasis, observed that if the facts are as stated by the hon. baronet "the court will not be held."

FLAGS AND THE TRUCE.

A LONDON PROTEST.

Mr. Rupert Gwynne asked the Prime Minister whether it was under the terms of the truce that the Sinn Fein delegates displayed the colours of the Sinn Fein Republic over the house occupied by them in London.

Mr. Lloyd George—I am assured, and I have made some inquiries, that Sinn Fein colours are not displayed over the houses occupied by their delegates in London.

Sir Thomas Bennett said that the Sinn Fein colours had been displayed on No. 22 Hans place for the last ten days, and he asked whether that was not great provocation to the people living in the neighbourhood.

Mr. Lloyd George—If that is the case, I quite agree with the observations of my hon. friend. I cannot imagine why all these follies are being perpetrated at a time when there is a real desire to negotiate for peace. It seems to me that some people are doing their best to make it impossible.

Mr. Rupert Gwynne—Will the right hon. gentleman see that the colours are removed forthwith?

Mr. Lloyd George—I am assured that they are not there.

Several Members—They are there.

Earl Winterton—They are the enemies of this country.

SINN FEIN COURT.

CHIEF SECRETARY'S STATEMENT.

Sir John Butcher asked the Chief Secretary for Ireland whether his attention had been called to a notice summoning persons to appear for the hearing of cases brought against them at a Sinn Fein Republican court at Mullingar on the 25th inst., and whether he would take immediate steps to prevent the holding of this illegal so-called court. (Cheers.)

Sir Hamar Greenwood—The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative. If the facts are as indicated, the court will not be held.

Hon. Members—They are being held.

TRADE BOYCOTTS.

AMENABLE TO LAW.

Mr. Remer asked the Prime Minister whether he was aware that the Sinn Feiners in Ireland are still boycotting English-manufactured goods, including English agricultural machinery, and that the Irish Dairymen, Limited, of Dublin, are exhibiting a German cream separator at the Dairy Show now being held at the Agricultural Hall; whether, in the opinion of the Government, such action constitutes an honourable reading of the truce conditions; and whether he would take steps to prohibit the importation of foreign agricultural machinery into Ireland.

Mr. Lloyd George writes in reply:—I understand that an attempt is still being made to boycott certain classes of British goods in Southern Ireland. This is a departure from the spirit, if not the letter, of the truce, and if a corresponding movement were organised in Britain against Irish goods I feel confident that Irishmen would regard it as a defiance of the truce. Any breach of the law committed in connection with this boycott can, and will, be dealt with, but I must point out that there is nothing to prevent the exhibition of German cream separators, either in Ireland or in any other part of the United Kingdom. The answer to the last part of the question is in the negative.

DAIL'S SUMMARY OF WORK.

Yesterday's Irish Bulletin contains a report submitted by the "Department of Local Government" to the session of Dail Eireann held in the third week of August last. It states:—

"The improvement in the affairs of this Department, recorded in our report to An Dail in May, has been maintained since that session. The 'warning' to holders of decrees for 'criminal' and 'malicious' injuries, and to solicitors acting for them, that public rates cannot be held liable for war damages, and that the Government will resist and punish any attempt to secure payment in this way, has had excellent results, and, in making it possible for public bodies to resume normal relations with their bank treasurers, has solved the difficulties that many councils were experiencing with their rate collectors. The destruction of the Custom House has finally eliminated the British Local Government Board as a serious factor in the situation.

"The enemy Government, realising the impossibility of ever regaining control of the Local Government machine, is now more direct in its attempts to smash it. Orders have been sent out for the arrest of all rate collectors whose appointment has not been notified to the English Local Government Board, and sanctioned by that body. The ratepayers are warned that such persons are not in a position to give a 'valid' receipt, and that, if they pay to them, they leave themselves open to be called upon to pay again to a 'duly authorised' collector.

"These efforts at obstruction are not attended with much success. At the moment the position is worst in Leitrim, Monaghan, and Meath. In Leitrim the Northern Bank was treasurer to the County Council; it has been dismissed in accordance with the boycott. The other banks have refused to accept the treasurership, and the rate collectors refuse to lodge to 'unauthorised persons.' There is a large amount of last year's rate outstanding, but it is believed that most of this is in the hands of the collectors. Steps are being taken to meet this crux.

OUTSTANDING.

"In Monaghan there is about £10,000 outstanding of last year's rate due to the arrest of the rate collector of one area and a refusal by the ratepayers (Unionist) to pay to a collector unsanctioned by the British Department. In Meath a new secretary to the Council has been appointed, and one of the best of the Department's inspectors has been put on this county—their united efforts may effect an improvement.

"The Department thought it wise to increase the number of inspectors from 14 to 20. In large counties like Cork, Limerick, Clare, Galway, and Mayo there is quite sufficient work to keep an energetic man busy, and in certain other counties where difficulties are most acute it is found that mere occasional visits from our inspectors are not productive of the best results.

"The question of audit of the accounts of public bodies is an urgent one, and must be undertaken at the earliest moment that conditions permit. It is a fairly good sign that the public bodies themselves and their officials are eager that the Department should undertake this work, and in some places in response to urgent requests accounts have been satisfactorily audited. An extension of this work is a natural and necessary development of the Department's activities, and has been considered in the preparation of the estimates for the next half-year."

DEATH OF MR. J. B. DUNLOP.

ROMANCE OF THE TYRE.

AN EPOCH-MAKING INVENTION.

The death of Mr. John Boyd Dunlop, inventor of the pneumatic tyre, took place at his residence, Leighton, Ailesbury road, Dublin, on Sunday evening. Mr. Dunlop was born in February, 1840, and was thus in his 82nd year.

Late Mr. Dunlop.

[Lafayette.]

To say that Mr. Dunlop was a benefactor to his generation but inadequately expresses the effect of the invention which he gave to the world. The pneumatic tyre completely revolutionised road traffic. It was responsible for the development of the bicycle as we know it, and later of the motor car, and, as a high authority recently claimed, of the aeroplane. The internal combustion engine for land, sea, and air was the outcome of the motor car. Without the pneumatic tyre, high-speed automobile vehicles would have been impossible, and the motor car could not have developed a type of engine which eventually became the engine of aeroplanes.

INVENTED IN IRELAND.

In the romantic page of history which will pourtray the rise and development of the pneumatic tyre and automobile vehicular transport the name of Mr. Dunlop must occupy an honourable place. That page has not yet been written. It was Mr. Dunlop's hope that, notwithstanding his great age, he would himself have been able to supply it, but this was not to be.

The fact that it was in Ireland that the pneumatic tyre was invented has given this country a special interest in motor matters, and it was one of Mr. Dunlop's greatest regrets that Ireland did not benefit to a still greater extent from the industrial impetus which his invention provided. The holding of the first of the Gordon-Bennett Automobile Races in Ireland was at once a tribute to the inventor of the pneumatic tyre and to the country.

FROM AYR TO ULSTER.

VETERINARY SURGEON.

James Boyd Dunlop was a Scotsman, a native of the County of Ayr, where he was born on 5th February, 1840. After his early schooling he decided, much against his parents' wishes, to adopt the veterinary profession. They did not consider him suited to that business, but he persisted, and at the age of 19 he received his diploma at the Royal (Dick) Veterinary College, Edinburgh. Immediately afterwards he came to Ireland and began the practice of his profession at Downpatrick, Co. Down. After a few years there he moved to Belfast, where he soon became one of the leaders of the profession. Forty years ago he specialised in the preparation of compounds for various animal diseases, and many of these are still on the market, and are recommended by present-day practitioners. He patented his remedies, and soon they brought him a substantial fortune.

INCEPTION OF THE TYRE.

Like most great inventions, the idea of the pneumatic tyre came to Mr. Dunlop quite simply. He told the story himself in an article in the birthday issue of the Irish Cyclist and Motor Cyclist. His late son, John, at the age of nine had a tricycle, and it was decided to experiment with it by attaching air tyres, which would skim over all surfaces quickly. Towards the end of 1887 Mr. Dunlop procured a small disc of wood, made an air tube of sheet rubber, 1/32 inches thick, and secured it to the disc by means of a thin strip of linen cloth. The front wheel, with its small solid tyre, was removed from the tricycle, and a private demonstration proved the air tube to be incomparably faster than the solid.

He then made and fitted two very large rims and tyres for the rear wheels of the tricycle. The front fork was too narrow to take an air tyre. On the evening of the 28th February, 1888, "Johnny" took the tricycle out, and was told to go for all the newly laid macadam he could find. He was out for a long time. Next morning the outer rubber was carefully examined, and not a scratch could be found on its surface. The air supply tubes had each a non-return valve. The supply tubes outside of the wooden rims were tied like that of a football and concealed in recesses in the rims. Next evening the tricycle was dismantled and laid past, never to be ridden again.

An up-to-date tricycle, minus driving wheels and spokes, was next procured. Mr. Dunlop built the wheels himself, the rims being of American elm, two inches broad, and flat on the outer surface. They were finished in July, 1888, and a friend assisted him to protect the tyre. "Johnny" on the new tricycle gave two local "fliers" a warm time in a race along the longest straight macadamised thoroughfare in Belfast. After further tests, Mr. Dunlop ordered a pair of thin air tubes in lengths, and made and fitted the tyres, which were ridden daily for two months till near Christmas, and were ridden afterwards about 3,000 miles.

FIRST TYRE PRESENTED.

Then came the application of the tyre to the bicycle, which revolutionised cycling. The first bicycle air tyre which Mr. Dunlop made was presented to the Govenors of the Royal Scottish Museum, Edinburgh. It is interesting to note that the tyre had never been punctured, repaired, or removed from the rim, although the wheel had been ridden over 3,000 miles.

The new invention was soon put upon the market, and a company was formed to develop it. The first machines made with the Dunlop tyre appeared clumsy and ungainly as compared with the neat solid tyre, and when they appeared on the racing tracks they usually evoked shouts of derision. Mr. R. J. Mecredy was one of the earliest believers in the new tyre, and he had the distinction of winning many victories with it. Ultimately it received the splendid advertisement of being banned from the races, but its success was then assured.

DRAWBACKS OF SUCCESS.

A NOTE OF REGRET.

When asked recently by an interviewer if he had made much money out of the invention, Mr. Dunlop said, "Not so much as I should have made," and then he added with a certain bitterness, "If I had it to do again, and if I had any idea that I would have been attacked as I have been, I never would have divulged it. I am quite sure that my life would have been much more valuable than any money I have made out of it."

In his house at Ailesbury road, Dublin, Mr. Dunlop had many relics of his early inventions, which he delighted to show to his visitors. These included a model of the first pneumatic-tyred machine.

Ten years ago, when well over 70 years of age, he undertook a trip to America, where he was received warmly by learned and scientific bodies. At the summer meeting of the Society of Automobile Engineers of America, which was held on board a steamer on the Great Lakes, he had the privilege, which he highly appreciated, of opening a debate on the subject of tyres; and in the course of his speech he described the origin of his own tyre.

Early in life he married a North of Ireland lady, who was born in the same year as himself, and, notwithstanding her eighty-two years, still enjoys excellent health. They had two children, only one of whom, Mrs. McClintock, now survives. His son, Mr. John Boyd Dunlop, died about eighteen months ago.

ACTION ABOUT A PICTURE.

Readers of the Irish Times will recall that about a year ago Mr. Dunlop brought an action against the Dunlop Company for an injunction to prohibit them from using a certain picture of him in their advertisements. In this he was represented in an attitude which, as he said, he never did or could assume. He said in his affidavits that the advertisement made him ridiculous, and that it was even an offence to his relatives and all who knew him.

The case first came before Mr. Justice Powell, who granted leave to serve a writ out of the jurisdiction upon the secretary of the company in London. The company took the case to the House of Lords, and Mr. Justice Powell's order was upheld. When the matter in due time came back to the Irish Chancery Court it was found that the company settled with Mr. Dunlop by undertaking to abstain from publishing the objectionable picture in Ireland. Counsel for the company paid a handsome compliment to Mr. Dunlop, whose name had been so honourably associated with that great corporation as the inventor of the Dunlop tyre, and there the matter ended.

To the last Mr. Dunlop's mind was as active as ever, and though physically enfeebled he suffered little pain.

The funeral will take place to-morrow to Dean's Grange, leaving Leighton at 11 o'clock.

AID FOR IRISH UNEMPLOYED

CABINET'S DECISION.

Dr. Macnamara, in the House of Commons last evening, moved the second reading of the Unemployment Workers Dependents Bill, which forms one part of the Government's many-sided efforts to deal with unemployment.

The main provisions of the bill have already been published, but in effect it asks employers and employed persons now covered by the Insurance Act to bear a further contribution, the proceeds to be augmented by a substantial grant from the State.

Dr. Macnamara said that the Government did not propose at first to include Ireland in this special and purely emergency measure, but he had been pressed very hard by the member for Armagh (Colonel Allen) and by the member for Falls Division (Mr. Devlin), who said that the employers and the people were willing to pay, and they asked the Government to put up their share, in order that the people should have the benefit which they had been having under the Insurance Act. They also pointed to the distress which had hit the shipbuilding and linen industries.

THE DILEMMA.

He admitted that the dilemma had been created by negotiations which were now proceeding on other matters. He was authorised to say that, on reflection, Ireland should be put in the bill, unless, meanwhile, before the bill left the House, steps had been taken to transfer the necessary power to the Legislature.

Sir Samuel Hoare—Does that refer to the whole of Ireland?

Dr. Macnamara—Yes.

Earl Winterton—Does the right hon. gentleman expect to get many contributions from Clare and Donegal?

Mr. McGuffin—In the event of the services being transferred, will the payments be interrupted?

Dr. Macnamara—I certainly hope not.

Mr. McGuffin—We must have some exact declaration with regard to that. It would be a very serious contingency to us if, before the Legislative properly functions, payments were stopped.

Dr. Macnamara—God forbid that I should be dragged into this larger controversy.

Asked by Earl Winterton how he would proceed, Dr. Macnamara replied that the present insurance stamp which is being used will be overstamped by a twopenny stamp, so that those who pay one will have to pay the other.

"After all, at the end of the line," he said, "are people who are suffering. They are the Government's objective, and it will be the duty of the Government to see that there is no interruption."

He was quite aware of the fact that the new scheme would throw a heavy burden on local committees, and it would have to be carefully and closely administered. They were voluntary bodies, and were composed of representatives of employers and workpeople, and also representatives of ex-Service men. They had worked devotedly and ungrudgingly, and had given a large amount of time to the work.

Captain Craig thanked the Government for their decision in regard to Ireland. It would be a great relief to everybody in Ulster when they heard it. In view of that decision he merely rose to ask the Labour Minister to make it absolutely clear what the intention of the Government was in regard to the other two bills dealing with the unemployment question. As the bills were drafted they would apply to Ireland, but the Prime Minister, when asked the other day if the proposals would apply to Ireland, gave a somewhat emphatic "no."

Dr. Macnamara—The question was simply directed to this bill.

CAPTAIN CRAIG.

Captain Craig—I am very glad to have it answered, but I should like the right hon gentleman to make it clear that the other bills will apply to Ireland.

Dr. Macnamara—I cannot say about the others.

Captain Craig said he would take it that Ireland would be included, by reason of the fact that she was not definitely excluded. He was very glad in regard to the present bill that the Government had seen their way to rectify what would have been a very unjust difficulty in which Ireland, and particularly Ulster, would have been placed if excluded from its provisions.

He hoped the Government would remember that they were only too anxious to shoulder the responsibility of unemployment and all other responsibilities when the necessary powers were handed over to them by the completion of the Government of Ireland Act.

Mr. McGuffin expressed his pleasure that Ireland had been included. They had always had difficulty in persuading the House that Ireland had a case. Lord Carson propounded the policy in that House which received general acceptance to the effect that when ameliorative legislation was introduced in regard to industrial and social matters it should be extended to Ireland.

The condition of Ireland with regard to distribution and unemployment was very similar to what it was in England. Their mills and factories were idle. There was a decline in shipbuilding, and the unemployment in Ireland was greater than in England, being 27 per cent. against about 21 per cent. in England. There was every reason why the Government should have reconsidered their decision. There was one point to which he would like to call the attention of the Minister. If during the administration of the Act the powers were transferred to the Northern Parliament he hoped that Minister would see that there was no dislocation of benefits. If the Minister would keep that in view he would have the thanks of the whole industrial community.

The second reading of the bill was carried by 226 to 70, and the House then went into Committee on the financial resolution to the bill.

OBITUARY.

COLONEL SIR W. H. MORTIMER.

The death occurred at Brighton yesterday of Colonel Sir William Hugh Mortimer, K.C.B., who served for twenty-eight years in the Army Pay Department, and became Chief Paymaster. He was in his 75th year.

MR. O. H. BRADDELL.

The death took place on Sunday at his residence, Lower Bullingate, Carnew, of Mr. Octavus Henry Braddell, I.S.O., in his seventy-eighth year. He was a son of the late Mr. J. R. Braddell, of Raheengraney, Clonegal. In 1862 he entered the service of the Board of Works as a junior clerk. Soon he showed that his abilities entitled him to a higher post, and promotion came rapidly. He advanced to the position of accountant, the highest post in the accountancy department. He retained this position until his retirement in 1906, having been accountant for twenty-four years, and having a service record of forty-four years. While resident in Dublin he took a large part in the social life of the city, and on his retirement went to live on his farm in Co. Wicklow. His interest also extended to Church affairs, and he was a member of several Church of Ireland bodies. The interment will take place at Carnew to-morrow morning.

BRISK WEATHER.

FORETASTE OF WINTER.

Ireland experienced a foretaste of winter yesterday, snow falling on the hills of North Tyrone and round Strabane.

So far as Dublin was concerned, there was a bracing snap in the air. It was a glorious day of sunshine, with a dry, keen wind. No rain fell in the city, but there were sharp storms of hail and rain in the hills. The wind was freshening early this morning and the sky was overcast.

Foreign telegrams show that wintry conditions are prevailing in the Haute Noire department of Central France, where snow fell yesterday. Denmark experienced violent storms during the last 24 hours. Low-lying parts of Copenhagen were flooded.

MAJOR-GENERAL CAMERON.

Major-General Archibald R. Cameron, who has been appointed to the command of the troops in the North of Ireland, is a distinguished soldier, with a long record of active service to his credit. When war broke out in 1914, he was appointed a General Staff Officer of the 5th Division, which appointment he held in France till October, 1915, when he was given the rank of Brigadier-General on the staff of the 10th Army Corps in France, and subsequently held the same rank in the 4th Army and the 9th Army Corps.

He was severely wounded in France, and was seven times mentioned in despatches. He was with the hard-fighting 5th Division in the advance to, and the retreat from, Mons, the fighting on the Aisne, Marne, and at Ypres during the terrible winter of 1914-15, and on the Western front practically throughout the war.

His brilliant services in the staff were recognised by a well-merited C.B. and C.M.G., the French War Cross, the 1914 star, and the brevet step of Colonel. He was latterly in command of the 18th Infantry Brigade at Limerick.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

KARL'S ILLUSIONS.

POWERS IN UNISON.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The most gratifying fact in the news from Budapest is that the uncompromising action of the Government appears to have behind it the strong and general support of the public. It is, indeed, this support which has enabled the Government to deal promptly and effectively with the Royalist advance. The maintenance of peace is the supreme object of all the Entente Powers. A Hapsburg restoration would lead immediately to war. It is, therefore, inadmissible in their eyes, and in the eyes of the democracies for whom they speak.

The ignorance and the blindness of fallen monarchs and of their counsellors are proverbial, but the ignorance and the blindness of Charles and of his advisers must be exceptional, if any among them have really cherished the fatuous ideas on the attitude of those Powers which are attributed to them. They imagined, we are told from Budapest, that some of the Great Powers would protect them, and that others would acquiesce in inaction on the part of the Entente. The Paris Temps states that the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung has lent its authority to this extravagant and ruinous illusion. It has published a telegram from Innsbruck which asserts that Charles had come to an agreement with the French Government. The lie is told with circumstance. The arrangement was concluded on October 8, and by it France agreed to support the Hapsburg restoration, while Charles promised to direct Hungarian policy against Germany and to join the Little Entente.

The story seems to have been widely circulated. If it encouraged Charles in his adventure he has no reason to thank its authors; but, doubtless, they were not thinking much of him when they fabricated it. Their thoughts were fixed, as they are always fixed, upon the fond hope that by false and malignant calumnies, they might sow suspicion between England and France. M. Briand's great speech the other day is the latest demonstration that these shameful tactics only react upon themselves, and upon the cause they desire by any means to serve.

SEEKING A FORMULA.

CONFERENCE HOPES.

The Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times writes:—There is at the time of writing no reason to abandon hope that the Conference will go on to pursue with a clear aim the purpose for which it was called. Different constructions were put upon the Prime Minister's brief statement in the House of Commons, and in some quarters it is regarded as an indication that the Sinn Fein delegates would be required to repudiate Mr. de Valera. The meaning of the statement, would, however, appear to be that the Conference "cannot proceed on any other basis" than the recognition by the Irish delegates of the position of the Government, which is that the question of the independence of Ireland will not and cannot be debated.

It is understood, adds the Correspondent, that the Conference and its Committee were engaged yesterday in finding a formula which shall put it beyond doubt that the purpose of the Conference is the same in the minds of all who take part in it. Can this be done without requiring the Sinn Fein delegates to repudiate either Mr. de Valera or their own Republicanism? They have been Republicans—they stood as Republicans at the last general election—and they may be again if the worst happens, and not the best; but now, and so long as the Conference lasts, are they men and delegates sincerely and earnestly endeavouring to discover "how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may be best reconciled with Irish national aspirations"?

That is apparently the kind of formula that is being sought. The formula is important, and the spirit behind the formula is all important. In Ministerial quarters last night strict reticence was observed, but it was gathered that the position had considerably improved.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The Stock markets, almost without exception, were dull yesterday, says The Times. There was a disposition to mark down prices at the outset, as sales were feared as the result of the news from Hungary. As a matter of fact, sales from the Continent, though of no great importance, were sufficient to depress prices in the markets for Oil and Mining shares. Foreign Bonds also showed heaviness, and the Argentine Railway market derived no encouragement from the Chairman's remarks at the meeting of the Buenos Ayres and Pacific Company. The best market in the House was again that for Gilt-edged Securities, where a quite fair amount of business was reported.

COFFIN LEFT IN CHURCH.

A somewhat mysterious incident is reported from Sixmilebridge, Co. Limerick. It is stated that when the parish clerk entered the Roman Catholic church in the morning he discovered a coffin in the aisle, facing the high altar.

The breastplate of the coffin bore the following inscription:—"Constable Daniel A. Murphy, aged 23. Died April 9."

It is presumed that the coffin was placed in the church before closing hours the previous night, as the doors were not forced.

It is stated that Constable Murphy was taken away last March while conveying despatches between Broadford and Sixmilebridge, and had not since been heard of.

The local police took charge of the coffin.

MIDWIFERY IN IRELAND.

The Central Midwives Board for Ireland held a meeting on Thursday last at the offices of the Minister of Health, 33 St. Stephen Green, Dublin. The Secretary reported that at the recent examination for midwives the answering of the candidates showed a distinct improvement on previous examinations, several scoring as much as 95 per cent. of the total marks. It was decided to hold the next examination on February 7 and 8, 1922.

KARL ROUTED.

MYSTERY OF HIS FATE.

REPORT THAT HE HAS BEEN CAPTURED.

PANIC-STRICKEN ARMY.

The picturesque part of ex-King Karl's adventure into Hungary appears to have ended. A telegram from Budapest reports that he has been captured, while a message via Vienna says that he is in flight. His Army was beating a panic-stricken retreat.

Undoubtedly there has been sharp fighting on the outskirts of Budapest. All political parties rallied in support of the Regent, Admiral Horthy, and the Republican Government. The majority of the troops remained loyal.

Karl had a mixed force of regular cavalry, which he is stated to have won over to his cause by misrepresentation, and those irregular bands which have been harassing the Burgenland.

The ex-King's arrival was unexpected, and at first he made some headway, but loyal Government troops concentrated outside the capital, and routed the adventurers in a short engagement.

Mr. Lloyd George, in the House of Commons yesterday, defined the Allies' attitude towards the Royalists in Hungary. The Allies presented a united and uncompromising front in demanding the immediate expulsion of the ex-Emperor, and adequate measures for preventing such a move, which menaced the peace of Europe, in future.

FLIGHT AND CAPTURE.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS.

A telegram from Budapest, dated Monday night, says:—Ex-King Karl and Queen Zita were captured to-day near Komorn. They are now at the Castle of Totis, under military guards. The troops at Oedenburg have surrendered.

After the fighting the forces of ex-King Karl were dispersed. Their leaders fled, and abandoned the ex-King. Karl, it is stated, was then handed over with every mark of consideration to the care of Colonel Simen Falvy, Commanding the National Army.

No official statement has yet been issued in confirmation of this report.

A Vienna message says that, following the panic-stricken retreat of the ex-King's troops, many of whom were captured, Karl and his bodyguard hurriedly entrained and fled towards Komorn.

The Government now consider that there is no further likelihood of military action.

Ex-King Karl is accompanied by Majors Osztenburg and Lehar. It is said that the Raab (Gyor) garrison was tricked into taking the oath of allegiance, but a regiment of Hussars remained faithful to the Government.

Karlist troops which were brought to Budades were persuaded to entrain in the belief that Bolshevist troubles had broken out in Budapest.

Yesterday morning the Government troops attacked the Karlists entrenched behind the railway at Budades, and drove them back, having eight killed and twelve wounded. Arms and munitions and a number of prisoners were taken.

Pourparlers were held later, which resulted in an understanding that there should be no further bloodshed.

TO BE INTERNED.

HUNGARIAN DECISION.

Negotiations took place yesterday between the representatives of the Hungarian Government and of the ex-King. The Hungarian Government has laid down the following seven conditions:—

(1) Unconditional surrender.

(2) The King's military advisers to be courtmartialled.

(3) His troops to be disarmed and granted an amnesty.

(4) The definite abdication of the King.

(5) The King to be interned in Hungary until deportation arrangements have been concluded.

(6) Final residence of the King and his manner of departure to be determined by the Great Powers.

(7) The political advisers of the King to be prosecuted.

The Ambassadors' Conference met in Paris yesterday, and instructed the representatives of the Allies in Budapest to summon the Hungarian Government to proclaim the deposition of Karl, to seize his person and expel him from Hungary, failing which the Allies disavow all responsibility for consequences that may follow for Hungary.

The Regent, Admiral Horthy, has issued the following proclamation to the National Army:—The National Army took the oath to me, and it must therefore obey my orders. Only the Regent can authorise the transfer of the power to His Majesty Charles IV., and to do so at the present moment would mean the ruin of the country. I therefore expect that all the members of the National Army will remain faithful to their oath, and that they will obey my orders without conditions.

APPEAL FOR ARMISTICE.

BUDAPEST, Monday.

The movement to encircle the Karlist troops is nearly complete, and the end is expected to-night. Karl this morning asked for an armistice. The request was refused, and operations continue. The ex-King to-day sent in as parlementaires the ex-Minister, Dr. Gratz, and Colonel Lehar. They had a meeting with the Government delegates. The Cabinet declared that it would not negotiate, but notified its conditions, and declared that they must be accepted.

There is general indignation here against the criminal and frivolous counsellors of Karl, especially against the mischief-maker, De Rakovisky. All the social unions, the university graduates, and town defence organisations, having assurred the Government of their support, the Ministry has been able to send troops to the front.

Except for a small party of adventurers and thoughtless youths, the whole nation is against endangering the country.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying yesterday afternoon to several question in the House of Commons relating to the movements of the ex-Emperor Karl, said:—

The attitude of the Allied Governments remains fully opposed to the restoration of any member of the Hapsburg dynasty to the Throne of Hungary. On the morning of Saturday, October 22nd, the Allied Ministers in Budapest, made a joint representation to the Hungarian Government, recalling previous declarations to the effect that they would not tolerate a Hapsburg on the Throne of Hungary, and calling upon the Hungarian Government to take forthwith all the necessary measures to secure once more the expulsion of the ex-Emperor from his former dominions.

On the same day the Representatives in Budapest of the Governments of the Little Entente made similar representations, reserving to themselves the right of taking the necessary steps to maintain the peace of Central Europe, which is now threatened.

I am unable to state the number of the forces at the command of the Little Entente, but they are considerable. The Hungarian Government has replied to the representations of the Allied Ministers, declaring that it will conform to the desires of the Allied Governments, and that it firmly maintains the point of view laid down by law that the ex-Emperor cannot exercise sovereign rights in Hungary, and that he will be obliged to leave forthwith, the necessary steps to that end having already been taken.

Sir J. W. Greig asked whether any representation had been made to the Swiss Government to see that undertakings given to them were carried out.

Mr. Lloyd George—The Federal Government stated that the King accepted the express condition that he would abstain from all political activity, and that he would inform the Political Department of any projected departure at least three days before. On representations being made to him, the King reaffirmed to the Department, on October 5, through a messenger sent specially for the purpose, that he considered himself, as always, bound without reserve by conditons made known to him on May 18, and accepted by him.

The Federal Council, to its deep regret, finds itself obliged to state that by his action the King has abused the rights of asylum accorded to him by Switzerland, and, at the same time, he has broken solemn pledges.

CLERGYMAN'S DEFENCE.

DISPOSITION OF CHURCH FUNDS.

NICE LEGAL POINT.

The Court of the General Synod of the Church of Ireland, which opened on Saturday, resumed the hearing in the Synod Hall, Christ Church place, Dublin, yesterday of charges brought against the Rev. John M. Robinson, Incumbent of Castlemacadam, Avoca, Diocese of Glendalough. The Primate presided, and all the other members of the Court were in attendance.

Messrs. W. Jellett, K.C., M.P., and E. J. Phelps (instructed by Messrs. Montgomery and Chaytor) appeared for the petitioners, who consisted of the people's churchwarden, the parochial secretary, the parochial treasurer, and seven members of the Select Vestry of the parish.

Mr. Serjeant Hanna and Mr. Charles Murphy (instructed by Mr. A. W. Glover) were for the respondent.

The charges against the respondent were—That he, being incumbent of the parish, sub-let the glebe and lands of Castlemacadam without the permission of the Representative Church Body, and resided in a house built out of moneys collected by him ostensibly for the erection of a new rectory, for which he failed to account; that he failed to account for rents received in respect of Church lands at Conary and for moneys collected in America and elsewhere ostensibly for the parish; that he failed to supply information relative to certain bequests amounting to several hundreds; that he refused on personal grounds to allow the bell to be tolled, or any Service to be held in the church, or to officiate at such Service, on the occasion of the funeral of the sister of one of the petitioners (Edward Johnson); that he, with the churchwarden, claimed the right to determine the position of the grave, notwithstanding the fact that the site was a place where the Johnson family had for many years been interred; that he was responsible for having caused to be passed a resolution declaring that no grave in the better part of the cemetery should be given to any family who did not attend or support the church; that he neglected to attend to parishioners during illness; and that he allowed an instalment due to the Board of Works in respect of the Castlemacadam Schoolhouse to remain unpaid.

Respondent denied the charges, and contended that they, or the great majority of them, were not cognisable by the Court.

BAZAARS.

The examination of Mr. Edward Johnson, people's churchwarden, one of the petitioners, was continued by Mr. Phelps. Witness mentioned that there were several bazaars held in aid of the church funds, and no accounts were ever furnished by the respondent of them.

Relating the incidents in connection with the burial of witness's sister, Charlotte Johnson, who died on the 4th May, 1920, he said that he went to see respondent on the 5th May, and told him that, in accordance with deceased's wish, he wanted to have her buried in a new plot adjoining those of other relatives. Respondent said, "It is not your wish, but mine," and he insisted on the grave of witness's sister (Sarah Jane) or that of his brother being opened. Respondent subsequently told witness that if he buried his sister anywhere else he would take proceedings against him. Witness said that if the gate was locked he would break the locks and respondent could take proceedings against him. On the day of the funeral they were kept in suspense for some time, and respondent did not officiate at the funeral, having sent a letter stating that he had been advised by his counsel not to officiate. There was no church Service and the bell was not tolled. After Holy Communion on Sunday, January 2nd last, witness was sitting in the vestry, and when respondent came in he said that if witness came there in future he would put him out and lock the gate.

WAR MEMORIAL INCIDENT.

When a Mr. Booth, who was now in South America, asked respondent for the use of the local school for an entertainment in aid of funds for a projected war memorial, respondent wrote him a letter stating that the way he looked at it was that there should be no entertainment given in the parish to which he could not go. He would object to "hob-nob" with "those contemptible people, who were double-faced and hypocritical," and the only way was to exclude them. Respondent added that he would give Mr. Booth every help, but requested not to be asked to give even a winking approval to conduct he abominated. The entertainment was not held.

Cross-examined by Serjeant Hanna, who asked him how long he had been leader of the opposition to Mr. Robinson in the parish, witness replied that he did not consider there was any opposition to him in the parish. At the Easter election in 1920 Mr. Robinson declared his own man elected as churchwarden. There was an appeal to the Diocesan Council, and witness was elected by lottery. He was again elected in 1921 by a majority of more than four or five. Witness had been leader against nothing. He had been doing his best in Church matters. He had no personal spite against Mr. Robinson.

Asked if he wished to have Mr. Robinson removed, witness replied: "If he does not act straightly and if the Court considers the charges proved."

THE CHARGE OF SUB-LETTING.

Mr. Shea (of Messrs. Dockrell and Co.) gave evidence as to transactions with the respondent relative to the charges of sub-letting, and as to correspondence that passed between the respondent and the firm. He said that respondent wrote asking to place the glebe lands on the firm's books for letting.

Mr. Kennedy, of the Representative Church Body, produced certificates dealing with the Hodge bequest.

William Burns, a member of the Select Vestry of the parish, stated that respondent refused to sign the warrant for the Hodge bequest, and he believed it had not been signed yet. When asked to furnish accounts, respondent usually said that he was too busy.

John McCabe, a workman employed by Mr. Johnson on the occasion of the funeral of the latter's sister, gave evidence regarding the incident about the burial.

Richard Hill, parochial treasurer, said that Mr. Robinson arrived at the graveyard with a policeman. Witness told him that he was only one out of three, as there were two churchwardens at the time. The policeman told Mr. Robinson he could do nothing, and went away. Witness heard conversations about the Stringer bequest, and respondent said that the interest on the money went to pay the debts in the Correll case.

QUESTIONS OF ACCOUNT.

Francis Carter, secretary of the Vestry, said that he sent requests to respondent to attend the Vestry meetings. From 26th October, 1920, until the revision meeting on 25th January respondent did not attend any meeting. He attended the last Easter meeting, but none since. At a meeting on 16th November, 1920, a resolution was passed recording intense dissatisfaction with the manner in which the parochial accounts had been kept. Another resolution called upon respondent to furnish before the next meeting a detailed account of the monies left during the past year, including the Hodge and Gregory bequests, the Church affairs composition balance, the rent of the church lands at Conary, the Mary Anne Stringer bequest, and several other bequests, as well as some detailed information about the Kilmacoo Endowment Fund. A resolution was subsequently passed calling on the rector and churchwardens to hand the Stringer bequest funds into the custody of the Vestry. Witness never saw any certificate of the investment of those funds until it was produced in court.

At a meeting on the 30th November last they asked for a detailed statement of expenditure. No acknowledgment of any of these requests and resolutions, all of which were sent to the respondent, was ever received. When asked how he came to apply the Stringer bequest, amounting to £450, to purposes for which it was not intended, he said that it was to reduce the debt due on the cemetery. When asked what was that debt he said it was the Correll case.

Witness recollected work beginning on the Manor House in 1907, and respondent occupied the house in 1919, having left the glebe the same year. Another gentleman went into occupation of the glebe when respondent left it. Witness saw charity boxes in the tearooms which had been erected, but he did not know to what object the proceeds were devoted. Mr. Robinson appointed a manager of the tearooms.

During the illness of witness's father, who died in November, 1917, witness left a message with the respondent's servant for the respondent to visit his father, but respondent did not do so, and did not pay any visit until the day his father died.

This closed the case for the petitioners.

RESPONDENT'S CASE.

Serjeant Hanna, opening the case for the respondent, said that the charges were instigated, not by a desire to do good to the parish, but to punish and revenge themselves upon the respondent. For many years there had been two factions in that parish, and it was only now, when the faction, of which Mr. Johnson was the leader, had got the upper hand—first of all, in 1920, by being made Churchwarden by lottery—that they had been able to give effect to their personal animosity by bringing him before that Court. In those charges they had ransacked his last twenty years of service, and brought before the Court every default possible to be brought against him—charges with which he was never faced at the time. The petitioners did not come before the Court clean-handed, looking for justice against a defaulting rector.

For fourteen years Mr. Johnson had been making the respondent's clerical life almost impossible in the parish. Time and again Mr. Johnson had called him a bully.

The charges against the respondent were serious, and he stood to lose his living and personal character. Mr. Jellett had made reference to two previous convictions, and he (Serjeant Hanna) protested against bringing those in. Such reference would be ruled out by a jury. What respondent felt most was the suggestion that he ever failed to attend a parishioner, because in that respect he was kindness itself.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS.

In reference to the charges of misappropriation of monies, counsel asked his lordship to search each case carefully, and to say whether it was a case of dishonesty or misguided application. He asked them to adhere scrupulously to the exact letter of the law in dealing with the charges.

In reply to Mr. Justice Samuels, who asked Mr. Jellett whether the Court could consider as a criminal charge that relating to the monies, Mr. Jellett said "No."

Mr. Justice Samuels—Then we may take it that it is not a charge of a criminal character. Therefore, it is a charge of not accounting.

Serjeant Hanna said that Mr. Jellett should not be allowed to take up that attitude. In cases of that kind the Court should come down with a heavy hand against the prosecution. The prosecution should not be allowed to say that because a charge against the respondent cannot be established they should be allowed to call it failure to account. If Mr. Jellett got up and said that there was no criminal charge against Mr. Robinson it would be a different matter. But he would not allow his client to be branded as a criminal one day of the week, and then Mr. Jellett to say, "I will not charge him with a criminal offence; he is only a defaulter."

Mr. Jellett—I do not alter one iota of what I said on Saturday. I said that one matter was of such a criminal nature that it could have been brought before a criminal court.

Serjeant Hanna said that Mr. Jellett's remarks had appeared in the papers of three days, and he wanted to know whether Mr. Jellett should not be bound by his deliberate charge. Mr. Jellett had said that it was a criminal offence within the Larceny Act.

Mr. Justice Samuels said that they had heard enough of the matter.

Serjeant Hanna—I am not to be swept aside like that. It is a most serious matter for my client. Counsel asked the Court, with all respect, to decide the matter when they were considering their judgment.

Mr. Justice Samuels said they would consider everything relevant to the case.

THE MANOR HOUSE.

Serjeant Hanna proceeded to say that it was because of the ill-health of his wife that respondent went to live at the Manor House. He gave the best account possible of the American collection, the proceeds of which amounted to £2,249, and he showed Archbishop Bernard that he had spent that exact sum in various church funds. Counsel could not find any provision in ecclesiastical law that compelled the rector to account to anybody for money he had collected, except money collected in the church.

The Primate—Any money for parochial purposes?

Mr. Serjeant Hanna—Except that in church.

Mr. Justice Samuels—The Select Vestry must.

Mr. Serjeant Hanna—Yes, but that is a different matter.

Mr. Justice Samuels—But they should receive an account from the rector.

Counsel said that respondent was anxious that his personal honour should be cleared. He might have been wrong in law, but he never put any of the funds into his own pocket, in the sense of misappropriation. He did not need to do that, because he was a man of means, and had lands, and his wife was a lady of means.

Relative to residing at the Manor House, Serjeant Hanna said respondent's wife became ill in November, 1919, and he was told by two doctors that continued residence at the Glebe would seriously injure her health. He retained two rooms at the Glebe House, where he slept at times, and he thought he could have two residences.

Coming to the charge of respondent's failure to give particulars of the application of the bequests, counsel said that respondent did tell the Vestry at their meeting. He told them what he had done with the Hodge bequest; with the Gregory bequest (which went to the repairing of the church); and with the Stringer bequest (which went in reference to the Correll case). Correll, who had previously brought an action against the rector and churchwardens in reference to a cemetery, said that respondent in that action was an unwilling partner. He conceived he was entitled to treat his liability in that case as parish liability, and not as personal liability, because the costs were incurred by the official representatives of the parish.

The Primate—Did he get the consent of the Select Vestry?

Serjeant Hanna said he could not say at the moment.

The Primate—It all depends on that.

Serjeant Hanna said that Mrs. Clarke's bequest was for the rector himself. His heart was in Conary, which he had transformed from a desolate parish, and it was alleged that he misappropriated the money which he had put into working up that place. The £100 given by Mr. Briscoe was devoted to the tea rooms.

In the course of counsel's arguments, in connection with the charge of not furnishing accounts, the Primate asked him if he meant to say that where a clergyman was treasurer of a parish he was not answerable to anyone for the rendering of his accounts.

Serjeant Hanna said that there was no ecclesiastical law in black and white that compelled him to do so. There was a civil law that could deal with him if he did anything wrong. Respondent did not receive the church collections, except 15s., which he had been in the habit of deducting for twenty years for the poor. Mr. Robinson never handled the tea room moneys. In regard to the bazaar money he made no secret of the amounts realised and to what purpose they had been put.

Mr. Justice Samuels said that it was shown that £1,791 had been spent on the tea rooms; were there no profits from that?

Serjeant Hanna said that part of the sum was spent on the foundation of the parochial hall, and up to a certain point, he was informed, the profits, which were small, were received by the Secretary or Treasurer, and then by a widow, Mrs. Evans, who had a large family and was in charge of the rooms.

At the conclusion of counsel's address the Court adjourned until Saturday next at 11 o'clock.

THE BURDEN OF INDIGESTION.

Here are the facts about a real remedy for indigestion—that burden which makes life a misery for so many. The remedy is Bisurated Magnesia, a harmless, yet effective compound which, since its inception, has received the written endorsement of thousands of grateful people in all parts of the world as well as the recommendation of doctors, nurses and hospitals. Bisurated Magnesia stops stomach pain instantly by removing its cause; it is quite inexpensive, as either tablet or powder form can be obtained from any chemist at trifling cost. It is the one sure, sane and safe remedy for those who suffer from indigestion, but when buying care should be taken to see that it is "Bisurated" Magnesia, for nothing else will do.

CHURCH NEWS.

No class of the community has made greater sacrifices in the war than the clergy of the Church of Ireland. A permanent record of these sacrifices will be furnished by the list, which is now being carefully prepared by the Rev. R. Ussher, Vicar of Westbury, Brackley, of the sons and daughters of the Anglican clergy throughout the world who gave their lives in the war, and who, for this purpose, asks their relatives to send him particulars of their full names, places where they died, and dates. No other obituary notices are necessary. The list will be supplemented by the names of the Chaplains who were killed or died during the war. Mr. Ussher will be glad to receive the names of the places where they died and the dates.

Statistics just published show that the foreign Protestant missionaries in Japan in 1920 numbered 1,263 (men 414, wives 360, single women 489). Of Japanese Protestant mission agents there are 3,750 (men 2,376, women 1,374). The Roman Catholic Church had 452 foreign workers and 179 Japanese, and the Russian Orthodox Church one and 103, respectively. Connected with the Protestant Church were 150,089 baptised Japanese, and 17,344 Japanese under definite Christian instruction. The Roman Catholic Church numbers 75,893, and the Orthodox Church 36,894.

A very striking increase in the circulation of Holy Scripture has been noticeable in India during the past two years. At the Allahabad Dépôt of the Bible Society the sales during the last year have been more than doubled. A copy of the Bible is presented to every student of an Indian University when he graduates, and the numbers which accept this gift are rapidly increasing.

ROYAL SILVER WEDDING GIFT.

ROME, Monday.

The King and Queen of Italy, on the occasion of their silver wedding, have presented £200,000 for the benefit of the men who developed tuberculosis through the war.—(Reuter.)

[King Victor Emmanuel was born in 1869, and married Princess Helen of Montenegro in 1896. He succeeded to the Throne in 1900.]

CONSTABLES "KIDNAPPED."

Two police constables were "kidnapped" in Mallow on Sunday night. They are stationed at Mallow R.I.C. Barrack. Both are mechanics, and the name of one is given as Flogdale.

SAVED BY HIS CHILD.

CONSTABLE'S ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

A thirteen-year-old daughter grappled with one of the assailants and enabled her father to escape being shot.

This was an outstanding incident which was described at the Galway Quarter Sessions yesterday in a case in which Constable Neilan, Mountbellew, claimed damages for being attached by two armed men at Moylough on June 5. The constable, accompanied by his wife and child and a lady friend, was entering his home when the men fired four shots at him. The child courageously grappled with the attacker and prevented him from again firing. The constable availed of the opportunity to get away by a back route to his barracks three miles away.

The wife of the constable stated that she grappled with the other man. She and her husband suffered from neurasthenia as the result of the attack.

The Recorder reserved judgment.

At the same court Dr. Quinlan and others were awarded £700 for the burning of Athenry tennis and cricket pavilion.

For the burning of Prospect Hill Sinn Fein Hall, Galway, the Sisters of Mercy were awarded £2,300.

CO. DOWN.

At Ballybot Quarter Sessions yesterday Judge Green made the following awards:—

Great Northern Railway Company, £4,940 for the derailment of the troop train near Adavoyle on June 10 last.

Mrs. Gallagher, Collingpark street, Belfast, £2,000 for the loss of her husband, Frank Gallagher, the guard of the train.

The Great Northern Railway Company, £1,746 for the destruction of a signal cabin.

On the question of whether portion of the charge should be laid on County Louth, the judge reserved his decision.

CO. TIPPERARY.

At Tipperary Quarter Sessions the undermentioned awards were made:—

Mother of Constable Nutley, R.I.C., £1,050 for the loss of her son, who was shot dead while returning from Mass in May last.

Sergeant J. Sullivan, R.I.C., who was shot through the lungs on the same occasion, and was rendered unfit for active duty, £750.

Margaret Healy, Ballingarry, £1,400 between herself and her infant child, for the loss of her husband, who was taken from his home by armed men in June last and found shot dead on the roadside five days afterwards. A label was attached to his body with the inscription: "Spies and informers, beware. Tried by court-martial and shot.—I.R.A."

Ellen Carew, Raheneva, Cappawhite, £400 for damage to her premises.

Phillip O'Shea, Killusty, Fethard, £2,400 for the burning of his shop premises and stock.

CO. WESTMEATH.

At Athlone Quarter Sessions on Saturday, County Court Judge Wakely made awards totalling £4,600 in connection with malicious injury claims.

STABILISING CURRENCIES.

NO COMMISSION TO BE APPOINTED.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Alfred T. Davies Hume asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether any steps were to be taken for the consideration and stabilisation of the various currencies.

Sir Robert Horne, in a written reply, states that the view taken by the Government on these questions was set out in a letter addressed by the Prime Minister to the President of the Federation of British Industries on September 8 last.

In this letter, Mr. Lloyd George stated that he had given careful consideration, in consultation with his colleagues, to the President's letters of July 11 and August 12, transmitting a resolution of the Credits and Currency Committee of the Federation proposing the appointment of a new Commission, with terms of reference similar to those of the Committee on Currency and Foreign Exchanges presided over by the late Lord Cunliffe.

He noted that this proposal was not put forward as a criticism of the policy recommended by Lord Cunliffe's Committee, and that the Federation regarded it as highly desirable that an arbitrary control of the currency should be replaced by some automatic means of regulation.

The Federation suggested, however, that there was so great a difference in the conditions under which the policy was laid down from those existing to-day, that a reconsideration of that policy in the light of more recent events is required.

The Government were not able to agree that there had been since the date of the Cunliffe report such important changes in conditions as the Federation suggested. They regarded it as too soon to come to a definite conclusion in favour of reconsidering a policy which no one, and certainly not the members of the Cunliffe Committee, expected to restore complete equilibrium before the expiration of a comparatively long period.

The idea that there is some short cut to a recovery of normal conditions was, in the nature of things, not unlikely to prove illusory, and until there was a clearer case for reconsideration it might only be harmful to create uncertainty amongst commercial men and financiers as to the policy to be followed.

At the present moment, after going through a period of unexampled depression and weathering a three months' coal stoppage, trade and industry were beginning to show the first faint symptom of recovery. In the opinion of the Government, to appoint a Commission to reconsider the policy of the Cunliffe Committee at this particular juncture might prove very unwise.

It would tend to unsettle public opinion once more, and, perhaps, raise undue expectations as to the results which might be obtained by artificial action.

For these reason the Government had decided that for the present the appointment of the new Commission which the Federation proposed was inexpedient.

"DEVILISH COMPETITION."

MRS. DESPARD AND WAR DESIGNS.

Mrs. Despard, speaking on the subject of international disarmament at a meeting held in Denmark House, Dublin, last night, under the auspices of the Women's Labour Council, said that there could be no justification for the devilish competition in armaments which was going on. Had it not been for the piling up of armaments, they would not have had the horrors of the world-wide war. The making of modern war instruments was not only iniquitous and cruel, but was responsible for the absence of happiness in their modern life, and for the ugliness of their surroundings.

Money had to be provided for shareholders in the big munition factories, and when a slump came, these people, aided by the politicians, engineered new wars. Millions were being spent on two extraordinary new vessels—two dreadnoughts. The State was engaged in a similar enterprise, instead of making the best provision for the people and relieving unemployment. She wished that the Washington Conference really was a disarmament conference. No good would come until the peoples of all countries made up their minds that armaments should go.

The meeting was presided over by Miss L. Bennett.

TRACED BY A NEWSPAPER.

SEQUEL TO GLASGOW CRIME.

At Glasgow High Court yesterday, Owen McAuley, a young man of about 20, was charged with the murder of his father, Henry McAuley, aged 70, at Townhead, Glasgow, last August. The accused was unemployed at the time.

A brother, on returning home in the evening, found his father lying dead on a sofa, with a large wound in his head. A household hammer was on the floor, and Owen was missing. He went to Edinburgh, where a friend, reading of the tragedy in a paper, informed the police.

The defence pleaded insanity, evidence being given that the prisoner sustained a head wound in the war. He suffered greatly from malaria, and since demobilisation had been strange in his manner. There was no quarrel, and evidently the father was killed in his sleep.

The prisoner, who was found guilty of culpable homicide and recommended to mercy, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

"VICTORY BONDS" CASE.

The "Victory Bonds" case, in which Mr. Horatio Bottomley and Mr. A. L. Cox were defendants came before Liverpool County Court yesterday. The plaintiff, a cotton merchant, named John Henry Springman, claimed £100, paid in July, 1919, to the defendants for 100 Victory Bonds. The action was not contested, the amount claimed being paid into court with costs.

MICHAELMAS LAW TERM.

INCREASED BUSINESS.

The operations of the High Court of Justice in Ireland for the Michaelmas Term will begin formally to-day.

The Judges, under the presidency of the Lord Chancellor (Sir John Ross), will assemble for the arrangement of business, and then a meeting of the Honourable Society of Benchers of the King's Inns will be held.

It is understood that one of the questions that will be taken into consideration is the position of law students who belong to "Northern" Ireland. Belfast, it is said, expects to be able to provide for candidates for the Bar without its being necessary for them to have to attend lectures, and keep terms, in Dublin.

In the chambers attached to the Courts everything is ready for business, which begins in reality to-morrow. A large number of jurors have been summoned, and the panels will be called over to-morrow. There are already 52 jury cases set down for trial, of which about 12 are "specials." On the corresponding date last year the number of jury cases entered was 45.

The new trial motions and Chancery actions lists are not yet complete.

It was stated in a paragraph in our issue of Saturday last that "almost three-fourths of the business transacted at these Courts for many years past came from Ulster." As this statement has been challenged by a member of the Bar, special inquiries were made by our representative at the offices of the Courts in order to ascertain how wide of the mark the statement might be.

No statistics are available as to the relative number of cases from Ulster and from the rest of Ireland. The officials say that, perhaps, "three-fourths" is over-estimating somewhat the business from Ulster; but they admit that Ulster has supplied half, or a little more, than the rest of Ireland, and from that fact they, or some of them, had come to the conclusion that the Ulster people were more "litigious" than the inhabitants of the South and West.

At any rate, the fact is indisputable that the setting up of a separate judiciary for the six Northern counties will diminish to a considerable extent the volume of business at the Four Courts.

NORTHERN JUDICIARY.

FIRST LAW TERM.

The official inauguration of the High Courts of Northern Ireland will take place to-day in the County Courthouse, Belfast. There will be more than the usual ceremonial associated with the opening of a new term in Dublin.

On this occasion, as it also marks the opening of the new courts, the Lord Chief Justice, who has now authority formerly possessed by the Lord Chancellor, will inaugurate the new courts by holding the levée in Michaelmas Term. At 12.30 he will walk, fully robed, in State across the hall, and, taking up his position under the clock, will there receive the other judges, members of the Bar, and the solicitors.

The Prime Minister of Northern Ireland (the Right Hon. Sir James Craig, Bart.) and the Lord Mayor of Belfast (Sir William Coates, Bart.) have announced their intention of being present.

Up to the present, it is understood, 365 King's Bench writs and eight Chancery writs have been issued.

GERMAN INDEMNITIES.

QUESTION NOT TO BE REOPENED.

Lord Eustace Percy asked the Prime Minister yesterday in the House of Commons whether the question of Upper Silesia was submitted to the League of Nations as a dispute under Articles 12 and 15 of the Treaty of Versailles, and whether the undertaking given by His Majesty's Government and the French Government to accept the decision of the Council of the League was conditional on the decision being unanimous.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that he had been informed by the Lord President of the Council that the recommendations made by the Council of the League of Nations to the Supreme Council contained not only a statement of the very elaborate provisions proposed for dealing with the industrial area of Upper Silesia, but a full statement of the grounds on which their decisions were unanimously arrived at.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy asked the Prime Minister whether the effect of the decision regarding Upper Silesia had been considered in reference to the payment of the German indemnities, and whether it was intended to re-open the question of the indemnities in view of the award of the Council of the League of Nations.

Sir Robert Horne—No, sir. The arrangements accepted by the German Government in May last provide for the automatic regulation of the amount without reference to any decision upon Upper Silesia.

Major Barnes asked the Prime Minister whether he could give the terms of the agreement made between M. Loucheur, on behalf of the French Government, and Herr Rathenau, on behalf of the German Government, and whether he could state the effect of this agreement upon the reparation provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, and subsequent agreements modifying these provisions.

Sir Robert Horne—I propose to issue a White Paper on this subject at the earliest possible date.

WOMEN WORKERS' RIGHTS.

CONGRESS RESOLUTIONS.

GENEVA, Monday.

At this afternoon's sitting of the International Working Women's Congress, the Congress adopted resolutions concerning improved housing conditions, facilities for medical assistance, the right of women and children to combine as industrial workers, protection against accidents, illness, disablement, and old age; and the protection of women in rural districts during maternity.

The Congress elected Miss Kate Manicom, of the British Workers' Union, to proceed to Washington to submit the resolution adopted by the Congress in favour of disarmament. It was intended to offer this mission to a French delegate, but none was prepared to go, and the choice of Miss Manicom was unanimously approved.

The session closed with a vote of thanks to the Press and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the British representatives and the "Internationale" by the French.—(Reuter.)

"HOLDS-UP" IN BELFAST.

PROTECTING THE COMMUNITY.

A more serious offence could hardly be committed than that of demanding money by menaces, said the Deputy Recorder of Belfast yesterday. He passed exemplary sentences on a number of prisoners convicted of the offence.

William Cowan, an ex-soldier, who had been convicted of demanding money by menaces, was sentenced to twelve calendar months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Mr. J. R. Moorhead, Crown Solicitor, said that the prisoner had taken part in one of those "holds-up," which was a very dangerous class of offence. It would be disastrous to public order in the city if it could be assumed for a moment that a Court looked upon an offence of that sort as a light one.

Edward McCrory, John M'Mullan, and William Mulholland, ex-soldiers, also found guilty of menaces, were next put forward.

M'Crory, his honour said, would be sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour, and the other two accused to a simlar term, but, on account of their pensions, he would not impose hard labour.

MINE INDUSTRY SUBSIDY.

APPROXIMATELY £7,000,000 SPENT.

Though he was not able to give the exact figure, Mr. Bridgeman told the House of Commons yesterday that the sum spent out of the £10,000,000 subsidy to the mining industry would probably not exceed £7,000,000.

Replying to Mr. Gilbert, Mr. Bridgeman said that the average weekly production of coal in Great Britain for the month of September last was 3,126,900 tons, as compared with 4,109,200 during March last. In the cheaper qualities of coal there had been a considerable reduction of price, but the average price throughout the country for the better class of coal had dropped very slightly, although in certain districts there had been a marked fall.

FORTUNE IN LUGGAGE.

BUCHAREST, Monday.

Constanza Harbour Police have discovered one million in Soviet roubles and precious stones of great value in the luggage of a man named Colombi coming from London. The authorities think the man is an agent of International Communist propaganda.

BUSINESS FIRMS

Requiring Women Typists or Clerks should call up 2078 (Rosse College, Stephen's Green). 170 Certificates in Shorthand, Typewriting, etc., gained by Pupils since January 1st, 1921.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

THEFT IN TRANSIT.

Timothy Caulfield, an employé of the London and North-Western Railway Company, was charged yesterday before Mr. Cooper, K.C., in the Dublin Police Court, with having stolen two pairs of socks from parcels in the course of transit. The prisoner was found in a part of a vessel where he ought not to have been. A detective saw him throw a pair of socks behind some boards. A second pair was found near, and it was alleged that the prisoner had dropped them. Caulfield subsequently admitted his guilt. The prisoner had borne a good character hitherto, but would now lose his situation. Mr. Cooper allowed him to stand out on £10 bail, to come up for judgment if required to do so. Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, prosecuted on behalf of the company.

"ROOMKEEPERS' SUNDAY."—The annual appeal on behalf of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society will be made on Sunday, November 13. The Rev. W. B. Costello will preach the annual charity sermon in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, Dublin, and special collections will be made in the other Roman Catholic churches of the city for the purpose of enabling the oldest city charity to continue its work throughout the approaching winter. With a knowledge of the hardship with which the poor of Dublin have to contend during the most trying season of the year, it is hoped that the public will generously recognise the practical value of this society, which has assisted the sick and indigent without distinction for 131 years.

LEINSTER.

DOCTOR AND ILLEGAL COURT.—At a Republican "inquest," held on the body of a girl who died in the Wexford Infirmary, Dr. S. A. Furlong, house surgeon, said that, as a captain in the army, who had sworn an oath of allegiance to the King, he could not give evidence. He would issue a certificate of death, but his conscience would not permit him to testify before that "court." The girl in question received injuries through being knocked down by, or falling near, a County Council steam lorry. The "hearing" was adjourned. Members of the R.I.C. were present in the "court," which was held at the Wexford Infirmary.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION DEMAND.—120 students are attending the classes in trade, commerce, and domestic science at Tullamore Technical Schools. Ferbane (King's County) School is not large enough to accommodate all who wish to attend the classes there, and a movement is on foot to apply for facilities to erect a new school there. Kilcormac (Offaly) rural school is being well attended.

ULSTER.

YOUTH'S PART IN THE FUTURE.—A new country, with clearer moral vision, and with an increased desire for individual liberty in religious matters, would arise from the dark days in which they lived, said the Right Rev. Dr. Millar, Bishop of Cashel, addressing the congregation in Christ Church, Londonderry, on Sunday morning. Upon the young people now entering on their responsibilities as men and women would devolve an ennobling duty. It was to show by their example that they were candidates for immortality, and that they were living proofs of the fact that men and women could attain to a high spiritual level, and to a true perception of that which was beautiful and holy.

LIVE ANTI-"PROFITEERING" COMMITTEE.—As the milkmen of Armagh have declined to discuss their prices with the Armagh Anti-"Profiteering" Committee, the latter proposes to open a depôt in the city for the sale of milk at a fair price. In addition, the Committee has arranged with local live stock owners to sell meat from a stall in the market place. The Committee has been in communication with the local co-operative bakery, with the result that the price of the 4lb. loaf has been reduced to 1s. 1d. It is considered that laundry prices, which are at war-time level, are too high, and the Committee is to take up the matter with local firms.

AFTER-WAR REACTION.—Preaching on Sunday in St. Mark's Church, Armagh, the Primate said that one reason for the prevailing unemployment was that after the war they had failed to realise the vital importance of work. In the life of man there was a reaction resulting in slackness and a readiness to throw work away. If they were to recover their position it must only be by work—work of the mind and of the hands. Without the co-operation of God they could not hope to succeed.

"SPECIAL" CHARGED BY REGULARS.—At Dungannon Petty Sessions yesterday, John Beatty, Linfield street, Dungannon, was charged with assaulting the police, and Robert Alexander, Milton, a member of the "B" Class, Special Constabulary, was summoned for obstructing the police in the execution of their duty. The magistrate fined Beatty 7s. 6d. and costs, and, while dismissing the charge against Alexander, warned him against interfering with the police, who would have to be supported in the execution of their duty.

BOYCOTT MOVEMENT IN ULSTER.—Some days ago the majority of the shopkeepers in Coalisland, Co. Tyrone, agreed to boycott Belfast goods, some of them voluntarily, others reluctantly. On Sunday typewritten posters were placarded at Coalisland and Clonee chapel gates, and also at the cross-roads, setting forth the names of the merchants who refused to sign, and warning the public, under grave penalties, to have no dealings with those firms.

Two bombs exploded in the military camp at Roscommon Courthouse on Sunday, but did no damage.

National teachers in Drumglass, Co. Tyrone, have decided to form a branch of the Ulster National Teachers' Union.

In Keady market eggs sold at 4s. a dozen, in Newtownhamilton at 4s. 3d., and in Portadown at 4s. 9d.

Mr. John Pinkerton, who is a magistrate for the Claudy and Eglinton districts of County Londonderry, has been appointed a magistrate for the Londonderry rural district.

Skeleton remains of a man about 5ft. 8in. in height have been discovered at Cloonascragh sandpit, Tuam. There was a regular grave about 18 inches beneath the ground. It is considered locally that the body was probably interred there in the famine years.

The County Surveyor reported to Tuam Guardians that the majority of the roads in the district would be impassable this winter, but it was stated that the County Council had no money to repair them.

Archdeacon Latham, D.D., has resigned the position of chaplain to Wexford Union after 40 years' service. The Guardians have decided to make no new appointment for the present.

Tenants owing more than 10s. rent for Celbridge No. 1 District Council's cottages are to receive notice to quit unless they pay the arrears at once.

It is announced that the subscription list for a testimonial to Mr. Edmund W. Eyre will close shortly. The hon. treasurer's address is 4 Harry street, Dublin.

All the outlying police stations in the Templemore district are being evacuated. Borrisoleigh, Templetuohey, Templederry, and Gurtderry have been closed, and the personnel transferred to Roscrea, Thurles, and Nenagh.

Yesterday morning Youghal was extensively placarded with lists of banned Belfast goods and the names of the firms manufacturing them. Across was printed in prominent red type the word "Boycotted."

On the occasion of their marriage, the Rev. D Dowling, M.A., and Mrs. Dowling have been presented with a silver canteen service on behalf of the congregation of the First Armagh Presbyterian Church.

"That the amalgamation of small nationalities with large States is detrimental to their interests," will be moved at this evening's meeting of the St. George's Y.M.C.A., Parochial Hall, Temple street, Dublin, and will be debated.

Hugh O'Hare, aged 23 years, died in Newry Hospital on Saturday evening from tetanus. He had been wounded in the foot while examining a revolver, and died three days later in hospital. At the funeral some civilians discharged a volley.

Fire practically gutted the Esplanade Hotel, Newcastle, Co. Down, early yesterday morning.

£12 damages by consent and £6 expenses were granted to a man named Patrick Nolan at Maryborough Quarter Sessions on Saturday in his claim against two constables whom he accused of assaulting him.

HARASSING THE MOPLAHS.

SIMLA, Saturday.

The latest reports indicate that further reinforcements are being sent to Malabar. Following the successful enterprise of the Gurkhas, it appears that there is a possibility that the retreat of the Moplahs to the forest areas is not yet completed. Hence there is a chance of cutting them off before the bulk of them reach that difficult country. If that be so, six weeks may see the breakdown of the rebellion.—(The Times Correspondent.)

FOREST FIRE IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Monday.

The newspapers report from Nice that a big fire has broken out in the woods near Grasse, which itself is reported to be threatened. The fire covers an area of over one hundred acres, and continues to spread. Several houses have already been destroyed. Troops and civilians are combining to fight the flames.—(Reuter.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE CHURCH REFORM LEAGUE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—The origin of the Reform League's proposal is somewhat delicately referred to by Mr. G. W. Shannon, when he admits that he was filling the rôle of "advocatus diaboli." But he has not, apparently, realised how thoroughly the Synod at large appreciated and approved of the wise and clearly expressed opinion of the Archbishop, which, while admitting the desirableness of the proper objects of the League, reflected severely—and rightly so—upon the method by which it has been attempted to carry out those objects.

If the League had contented itself with putting forward, say, half-a-dozen of its best men, in order that it might be properly represented, probably nobody would have taken exception to it. But the sending out of a marked list for every one of the twelve places on the Diocesan Council, and for every one of the nineteen places on the General Synod, practically excludes every clergyman whose name is not on those lists from any chance of election. This is unfair. The whole scheme smacks too much of the pernicious system of collectivism which has inspired a great deal of the social and industrial unrest of recent years, and which, if admitted into Church organisations and allowed to become the guiding principle of diocesan affairs, is bound seriously to injure the higher and spiritual interests of the Church. Even if desirable reforms were effected by the League's programme—which is open to question—they would be purchased at a dear price if they reacted injuriously upon the spirituality of the Church.

It is quite possible that the Archbishop's wholesome advice may not altogether check the proposed plan of campaign, but, at any rate, it will cause all right-minded men to pause before they commit themselves to this system. The diocesan regulations have already provided a proper and legal way of carrying out these elections. Any member is at liberty to propose any name he likes in the Synod, and every voter is not only at liberty, but also, in my humble opinion, in honour bound, to exercise his right to vote to the best of his own judgment, and to select, without any outside dictation, those whom he honestly believes to be best fitted, by efficiency and experience, to fulfil the duties of the responsible positions in question.—Yours, etc., F. W. Mervyn, Canon.

CANADIAN CATTLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—That the removal of the Canadian cattle embargo might prove to be even more serious to the industry in Ireland than is supposed should be made known to the people. Mr. Herbert Hoover, formerly Food Controller for the United States, and now in the Cabinet as Minister of Trade and Commerce, is advocating that the United States Government should charter to exporters the United States Shipping Board fleet at the peppercorn rental of one dollar per month per ship. The Canadian Government own a large fleet of newly-built ships, mostly over 10,000 tons, and there is not nearly enough business at current rates to keep them going. The Government of Canada could very easily follow the suggestions of the United States, and charter their ships to exporters of Canadian store cattle at the rate of one dollar per month per ship. This would very largely wipe out the small protection which the Irish farmers now have in the cost of transportation of Canadian stores to Great Britain.

This important and probable development of the serious situation should not be disregarded by anyone interested in the Irish cattle industry.—Yours, etc., "Fair Play."

London, October 23rd, 1921.

A SERMON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Having read with interest, in last Saturday's Irish Times, the account given there of Mr. Swift MacNeill's reminiscences, I wish to make a slight correction. I was at the Service held at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on July 9th, 1911, when the late Primate Crozier preached on the occasion of the visit of King George V. and Queen Mary to Ireland, after their recent Coronation. In the report of Mr. MacNeill's lecture it says "King Edward's visit," which is evidently a mistake. In the edition of the Irish Times of July 10th, 1911, a very full account of the late Primate's sermon is given. His text was (as Mr. MacNeill says) taken from Proverbs, 29—"Where there is no vision, the people perish"—and the sermon was the most inspiring to which I have ever listened.—Yours, etc., L. Ida Blackley.

CRAFTSMANSHIP.

INFLUENCE ON CIVILISATION.

"Craftsmanship is both the root that must nourish and the root that must bear the fruit that we call civilisation; it is the root and branch of noble life," was the opinion expressed by Mr. P. Oswald Reeves, A.R.C.A., London, in a lecture on "Modern Irish Arts and Crafts" delivered last evening at the sixth exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Society of Ireland, which is now open in the Metropolitan School of Art, Dublin.

In the light of those considerations, he asked how did Western civilisation stand to-day? The established habit and system was a denial of craftsmanship. The Western world had chosen as its means of production a monstrous organisation of machinery tended by human machines. For creative faculties there was no place in our industrial system. The fruits that the Western world was gathering appeared to be mechanical ugliness, profit, war, a state of health that was serious and alarming, general unintelligence, undeveloped senses and loss of creative faculties, social squalor, widespread discontent and revolt.

The revival of craftsmanship, which was surely if slowly securing a place in the life of to-day, was an event of high importance. If there was to be a regeneration of this country, should it not be sought through the practice of craftsmanship and the play of those powers that would be brought by craftsmanship into being?

The practice of their respective crafts was bringing out of the men and women who were leading the new movement fine human qualities, amazing and untiring industry, insight, real intelligence and inspiration. They asked no more than that they might continue to live by and reap the happiness of carrying on their creative work in making things.

The lecture was illustrated with lantern slides. Mr. George Fletcher, F.G.S., presided.

VESSEL FOUNDERS.

CASUALTIES AMONG THE CREW.

Information was received at Belfast yesterday that the steamer Cavehill, one of the boats owned by Messrs. John Kelly and Co., Belfast, foundered in the North Sea on Sunday morning. The Cavehill, a vessel of 2,600 tons, was on the way from Newcastle-on-Tyne to Rotterdam with a cargo of coal, and the captain has telegraphed from Grimsby, where he has landed, that one of the crew is missing, and one dead. Fifteen others have been saved.

It appears that the Cavehill left the Tyne on Saturday, and sprung such a heavy leak in the stockhold the same evening that the pumps could not keep the water out. The Cavehill was formerly the German steamer Heinrich Hugo Stinnes.

AMERICAN MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Monday.

Stocks opened irregular. Railroads were bought on the favourable strike outlook; but a decline set in later, under bear selling of Mexican Petroleum and other Oils, Equipments, and Tobaccos. The market rallied on the resumption of pool operations in American Oils, Equipments, Sugars, and Motors, which showed gains. Steels, however, were sluggish on the reduction in the price of steel rails and operators awaiting the Steel Corporation quarterly earnings statement. A strong tone ruled at the close.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Monday.

WHEAT—Spot market firm at 1½c. rise. The visible supply of wheat in the United States has decreased 288,000 bushels on the week, and now totals 55,607,000, last year 34,411,000 bushels. The visible supply of wheat in Canada has increased 4,165,000 bushels on the week, and now totals 24,470,000, last year 15,131,000 bushels. The week's export clearances from the Atlantic seaboard total 6,989,000, last year 6,449,000 bushels. Receipts—Atlantic 1,279,000, last year 1,195,000; clearances 1,623,000, last year 2,338,000.

FLOUR steady at 25 to 50 points rise.

LARD—Cash easy, with prime Western 10 and middle West 25 points higher.

SUGAR—Spot steady; Porto Rican, 4.00; futures steady, 1 point up to 2 points down. December, 2.46; January, 2.38; March, 2.36; May, 2.46. 102,000 bags of Philippines sugar were sold to-day to refiners at 4.00 for prompt shipment.

COTTON opened steady, but 10 to 16 points lower, prices declining on the foreign political outlook, weak cable advices, and selling by Wall street houses and Southern operators. The market rallied under trade buying, fears of a tropical storm, the strength of sterling exchange, better Wall street conditions, improvement of Southern spot markets, and support by the bull party. The closing was very steady, 34 to 10 points up. Spot quiet at 20 points rise. New Orleans, spot, unchanged. Receipts—Atlantic 6,000, Gulf 29,000. Exports—Britain 4,000, Continent 1,000. October, 18.49; November, 18.49; December, 18.55; January, 18.29; February, 18.23; March, 18.11; April, 17.90; May, 17.67; June, 17.51; July, 17.27; August, 17.04; September, 16.78.

COTTON OIL irregular, with summer yellow spot 12 points up and December option 8 points down.

KANSAS CITY—Wheat firm, 3½c. up; No. 2 hard winter, 110½.

ST. LOUIS—Wheat dull; No. 2 red winter, nominal.

MINNEAPOLIS—Wheat firm at 2c. gain; No. 1 Northern spring, 131½.

WINNIPEG—Wheat opened irregular, ½c. higher to ⅛c. lower. Prices advanced afterwards, and the market closed firm at 1⅛c. to 1½c. advance; December, 108½; May, 113½. Oats steady, ⅛c. up; December, 37½.

CHICAGO, Monday.

WHEAT opened easy at ⅛c. to ½c. decline, and went lower on bearish foreign political news, a slack export inquiry, favourable weather, and lower North-West markets; then rose on smaller interior movement, the railroad strike being unlikely, predictions of decreased receipts, the bullish visible supply statement, commission house buying, and covering of shorts; but again partially reacted under selling by cash houses and realising. The market closed steady at 2c. advance. Spot steady. No. 2 hard winter, spot, 106½; No. 3 hard winter, spot, 105. December, 100½; May, 112½.

CORN opened steady at former values, and strengthened early on small receipts, sympathy with wheat and cash markets, smaller country offerings, and shorts covering; but lost some of the gains later on a disappointing cash demand, favourable weather, and the bearish visible supply exhibit. The market closed steady, 1⅛c. to 1½c. higher. No. 2 mixed, spot, 45⅜. December, 47⅛; May, 53⅜.

OATS steady at ½c. gain. December, 33½; May, 37½.

PROVISIONS opened dull, and declined owing to lower hog prices, heavy hog prices in the West, outsiders holding off, and local selling; then partially rose on covering and buying by grain people. The market closed barely steady, with lard 15 up to 7½ down, pork unaltered, and ribs 12½ to 7½ points lower. Lard—October, 9.55; January, 8.95; March, 9.15. Pork—January, 15.00. Ribs—October, 5.50; January, 7.67½; May, 7.95.

BACON steady, 12½ points down to unchanged. The receipts of hogs at 15 principal Western centres, including Chicago, since March 1st, total 15,716,000, against 15,786,000 for the same season last year.

HOGS easy, with light 10 to 15 and heavy 10 points cheaper.

COURT SCENE.

SINN FEIN EX-JUDGE'S CHARGES.

A remarkable scene took place at the Sinn Fein East Wicklow District Court, which was held in the Bray Town Hall.

A "justice," Mr. Joseph Campbell, held up the "court" for twenty minutes while he breathed defiance at it, declared that it was illegal, and announced that he was there to prevent jobbery and corruption.

He refused to recognise the "court," and was eventually removed under "arrest."

Mr. C. M. O'Brien presided, and Mr. O'Duffy, representative of the Republican "Minister of Home Affairs," was present.

Mr. Lynch, Registrar, having declared the court open,

Mr. Campbell stood forward and announced that he was there to challenge the "court's" authority.

Mr. Campbell went on to say that he had been a member of the first Republican "Court" set up in East Wicklow. He had received a communication asking him if he would consent to continue to act as a "justice." He had replied, "Most certainly," and he presumed that that letter was read at the convention held in Wicklow on Saturday, which convention, he deliberately said it, was a bogus convention.

He was no longer a member of the Wicklow County Council, of which he had been Chairman, owing to circumstances over which he had no control, but his wife, who was Vice-Chairman of the Rathdown Council, had received a notice at 12 o'clock on Saturday to attend the convention in Wicklow at 3 o'clock. Being democratic people, they were unable to hire an aeroplane, and she could not attend at that hour.

The Chairman of the "court" said that the "justices" had nothing to do with the convening of the convention. It was called by the representative of the Minister of Home Affairs in East Wicklow, with whom responsibility rested. He (the Chairman) could not allow this matter to proceed.

"I CHALLENGE ARREST."

Mr. Campbell, however, was not to be silenced so simply. "I am here," he said, "determined to put down jobbery and corruption in the public life of East Wicklow, even if no one else helps. Even if I am arrested by the I.R.A. I am here to break up this 'court' to-day. I am very sorry, but I challenge arrest. I protest that there is no representative of Bray, which is the most important urban district in County Wicklow. I hold that this court is absolutely illegal."

Mr. O'Duffy tried to soothe Mr. Campbell by telling him that the conventoin was called in accordance with the directions of the "Home Office," and that if he had done anything wrong Mr. Campbell could appeal, and would get a hearing from the "Ministry." The convention was called on the instructions of Mr. Austin Stack, and former "justices" ceased automatically to hold office from last Saturday.

Several times Mr. O'Duffy was interrupted by Mr. Campbell, who said that the whole thing was illegal, and that he would continue to interrupt.

When Mr. O'Duffy said that the justices had been elected by popular ballot, Mr. Campbell said that no decent Republican or other Government would tolerate jobbery, but it looked as if it was going to thrive as much under Dail Eireann as under the old party system.

"Eternal vigilance," he declared, "was the price they would have to pay to prevent wire-pulling, jobbery, and corruption."

Mr. O'Duffy declared that he would not allow such observations to be addressed to him, but Mr. Campbell was not to be suppressed, so Mr. O'Duffy left the building.

Mr. Campbell then lighted a cigarette, and standing in the centre of the hall declared that he would not leave the "Court" unless he was arrested. "I will have to be put out by force," he was informing everybody, when Mr. O'Duffy re-entered and directed that the business of the Court be proceeded with, on which Mr. Campbell said:—"I hold that if I am arrested it will be an illegal arrest."

He had no sooner spoken than four civilians apprehended him, and he was led out of the hall unresisting, but declaring that anyone who arrested him did so at his peril.

The business of the "Court," consisting of civil bills and ejectments, was then proceeded with.

FINANCIAL NEWS

IRISH STOCK EXCHANGES.

DUBLIN.

FUNDS FIRM. BANK STOCK AGAIN IMPROVED, BUT OTHER MARKETS MOSTLY SLIPPING. MARCONIS AND DUNLOP RUBBERS HARDER.

Surrounding circumstances, judging by the latest news in the papers, were not helpful to prices generally on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and consequently irregular price movements continued, with strength in Bank of Ireland Stock, firmness in the Funds, and a scaling down of quotations in most other directions. The Funds held firm for Consols and War Loan 5 p.c., but 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan eased a trifle. Rathmines and Rathgar Township Stock was the turn harder. Bank of Ireland Stock further rose a point, but limited declines were established in other bank shares. Breweries and Distilleries were all more or less dull. Dublin Distillers Ord. weakened again, and Guinness Ord. showed renewed dulness. John Power and Son Pref. were firm. Marconi Shares were quiet. Home Rails held firm where quoted, but prices did not alter. Dublin Tram Ord. were better, but a small lot of the Pref. were disposed of at a smart concession on last price. Dunlop Rubber Ord. Shares were a further slight fraction better, and an odd lot of Parent Tyre Ord. was picked up 1½d. under last price. Manufacturing Shares attracted a fair share of attention, and practically all round in Textiles prices gave way a little compared with last markings here. Burke Debs. were the turn better. Tobacco Shares were dull, and Mexican Eagle Oils were weaker at the close.

Home Funds were quiet. Consols repeated 49, and War Loan 5 p.c. 90¼, while 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan fell 1/16 to 62¼. Rathmines and Rathgar 3½ p.c. Township Stock rose ¼ to 55½.

In Banks, Bank of Ireland Stock rose a further 1 to 192, but Munsters fell ⅛ to 5¼. Nationals ¼ to 15¼, and Royals ¼ to 10¼ for a broken lot.

In Marconis, the Ord. rose 3d. to 31s., and the Pref. realised 30s. 9d.

There was no alteration in Home Railways. Great Southern Ord. repeated 44⅞, the Guaranteed 58⅛, Great Northern Guaranteed 58⅛, the Debs. 66, and Belfast and Co. Down 3 p.c. Debs. 46.

Among Tramways, Dublin United Ord. rose 1/16 to 6 1/16, but the Pref. fell ¾ to 7¾ for a small lot and Anglo-Argentine 4 p.c. Debs. ½ to 62½.

As regards Dunlops, Parent Tyre Ord. fell 1½d. to 14s. 9d. for a broken lot. The price was bid. Dunlop Rubber Ord. rose 1½d. to 6s 7½d., and the New Ord. 3d. to 6s. 4½d.

Manufacturing shares were fairly busy. Textiles were slack in absence of support. Calico Printers Ord. fell 1s. 3d. to 12s. 3d., Coats 6d. to 45s. 3d, the Pref. 1/16 to 10¼, the "B" Pref. 1½d. to 20s., Cotton Ord. 9d to 30s 3d, and the Pref. 6d. to 15s. 9d. Helys were steady at 15s. 3d., and Lever Bros. 8 p.c. Pref. at 14s. 6d. British-American Tobacco realised 61s. 3d., and Imperial Tobacco 47s. 1½d., 47s. buyers.

In Trading, etc., Burke Debs. rose 1/16 to 7⅞. Irish Times Pref. remain at 62s. Mexican Eagle Oil closed 9d. weaker at 62s., 61s. 9d.

THE LATER MARKET.

Dealings later were almost at a standstill. War Loan 5 p.c. rose 1/16 to 90 1/16, and "Mature" Land Stock quoted 54½. Parent Tyre Ord. were firmer at 14s. 10½d., and Imperial Tobacco at 47s., 47s. 1½d. Mexican Eagles were again weaker at 61s. 3d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The announcement is made that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has appointed a committee "to investigate and report upon the present rubber situation in the British Colonies and Protectorates for the information of the Secretary of State for the Colonies and to advise what remedial measures should be taken to improve the existing situation." Shareholders will read of the appointment of this committee with hopefulness, tempered by the recent memory of the abortive scheme of the Rubber Growers' Association. The important difference between the two is, of course, that, whereas the Association in its scheme made a majority of the world's producers a first essential, the present committee will be dealing only with our own Colonies and Protectorates.

The rubber industry has obviously come to a pass when anything that can be done should be done quickly, and for that reason we should imagine the committee will make its report and suggestions with as little delay as possible. Without being unduly pessimistic, the doubt naturally arises whether it will be found possible to partition what may be termed the "British" portion of the industry into a watertight compartment and what will prove to be the cost of doing so. But until the committee has got to work and submits its proposals any expressions of opinion must be subject to modification.

There are signs of improvement in the business situation, states the National City Bank of New York in its monthly review. While for the most part, the review continues, improvements relate to seasonal conditions, some of the changes are indicative of a gradual restoration of the industrial equilibrium which is necessary to permanent prosperity. The shoe industry and the cotton and woollen goods industries are now generally active.

In discussing the question of the Panama Canal tolls the review points out that the Isthmus of Panama is one of the great cross-roads of the world's commerce. It is not territory of the United States, and the American nation has been among the nations most insistent that by the law of common interest all the world had certain rights of transit and of equal treatment there, no matter what sovereignty existed over the territory or who owned proprietary rights in the Canal. The United States never can get away from the fact that it has steadfastly proclaimed this doctrine, and it should not want to get away from that record, for it embodies a principle upon which all international relations must be ultimately based if war is to be abolished. It will be very unfortunate to have any controversy over the question of Panama tolls either before the International Conference or afterwards. If the United States intends to insist upon an advantage for its own coasting trade, regardless of the interpretation which other countries give to the American treaty compact, perhaps it would be more creditable for the United States to take the action in advance of the Conference than afterwards, and boldly face it out in the Conference.

The Canadian Government is establishing a line of cargo steamers between Vancouver and South Africa, states the bulletin of the Union Bank of Canada. These steamers are of two types, the bulletin adds, some being 8,400 tons dead weight and others averaging 3,600 tons. The cold storage equipment will be suitable for the carrying of frozen and cured fish, as well as fresh fruits. It has not yet been stated how often these steamers will run. It is understood that this will depend largely on the business that develops, but it is claimed that sufficient service will be provided to handle the business between the two countries. These steamers will call at ports in China, Japan, and the Philippines, as well as the Straits Settlements and Java.

Why lose heart? Why look on the black side of things? Read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest the final dividend announcement of Messrs. Lambert Brothers, Ltd., coal exporters and shipowners, who come out of a trade slump, a three months' coal strike, and a further period of trade dislocation with bands playing and colours flying. There is a final dividend of 5 per cent. and a bonus of 10 per cent., both less tax, making 20 per cent. for the year, against 22½ per cent. for the previous year.

HEAVY STOCKS.

DEPRESSING FACTORS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Markets opened the week yesterday heavy in tone, as a result of the discouraging developments in home and foreign politics over the week-end, and for the most part the tendency remained dull throughout the day, the news of ex-King Karl's dash into Hungary, together with the uncertainty of the Irish situation and the further depreciation of the German mark, all combining to depress matters. The gilt-edged market, however, received some stimulus from the low rate at which the Treasury bills went on Friday, the result of the tenders not having been known sufficiently early to have any effect upon the course of things before the House closed for the week-end, but, even so, prices failed to finish at their best level, while disappointment was felt generally at the small volume of business passing.

LONDON STOCKS DULL.

ADVERSE INFLUENCES.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The news from all quarters over the week-end was scarcely calculated to improve matters on the London Stock Exchange, and consequently yesterday morning, after the post had been dealt with, markets fell away into an exceedingly quiet condition. The gilt-edged group was at first one of the best in the House, but even that sagged with the general depression. Consols, however, were unchanged. The 4 p.c. War Loan rose ⅛ to 96⅞. The 5 p.c. War Loan fell 1/16 to 89 15/16, the Funding Loan ⅛ to 71⅞, Victory Bonds ⅛ to 77⅞. India 7 p.c. rose ⅛ to 103⅞.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were nearly lifeless. German Threes were lower at one time, but closed unaltered. French Bonds were dull, but unchanged. Greek Fives fell 1 to 34½. Japanese Bonds were supported, and the 4½ p.c. rose 1 to 108. Chinese Bonds were quiet.

HOME RAILS continue their melancholy path downwards. Great Northern Pref. fell a point to 39 and the Def. ½ to 23. Taff Vale fell 1 to 40, Great Eastern ¼ to 25¾, and Caledonian Def. ¼ to 5⅞.

In COLONIAL and FOREIGN RAILWAYS "Canpacs" and Grand Trunks were quiet and showed no changes. Argentines were again flat, and "B.A.G.S." fell ½ to 51, Pacifics ½ to 30, and Westerns ½ to 50½. Entre Rios Ord. fell 1¼ to 11¼, Leopoldina 1 to 16, and Mexican National 1st Pref. 1 to 8. San Paulo Ord. was 1 lower at 89 x.d. Americans also were dull. Erie Pref. fell 1 to 21 and Southern Pacific 1 to 97.

MINING MARKET SMALL.

BUSINESS RESTRICTED, BUT KAFFIRS REMAIN STEADY.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Political considerations cum the postal restrictions kept business at a very low ebb all round the House yesterday. The speculative departments experienced a dull time, and the best that can be said of Mines is that there were few sellers about, while small bargain hunters were giving a little attention to specialities. A recovery of 8d. to £5 4s. 8d. per oz. in the price of gold gave a fillip to some of the Far East Kaffirs, which were also helped by one or two satisfactory quarterly reports. Geduld, for instance, makes a good showing so far as operating results are concerned, and also as regards developments in the No. 7 shaft. The Springs, Brakpan, and other quarterly figures show up well, and several of the shares were distinctly harder, but taken all round the market could hardly be described as cheerful, and on balance there were about as many shrinkages as improvements. Apart from Falcons, Rhodesians were dull and uninteresting, a fall in Chartered setting the tone. Paris was perturbed by political happenings, and some rather heavy offering of De Beers from that quarter, assisted probably by dividend misgivings, caused a sharp break in the price. Closing prices:—

NO INTEREST IN INDUSTRIALS.

MOVEMENT TO LOWER PRICES.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

An uninteresting session was experienced by the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday. Jobbers showed no initiative in the absence of public inquiries, and price movements were consequently for the most part unimportant.

In the Textile section Courtaulds suffered a set-back to 30s. 9d., or 1s. lower on balance. Minor declines occurred in British Cotton and Wool Dyers at 4s. 6d., Bleachers at 1 5/16, and Bradford Dyers at 1 13/16, and Crosses and Winkworth Pref. at 14s. 6d. Coats fell off to 45s. 6d., but Sewing Cottons rose to 1 11/16, and British Cellulose Ord. to 4s. As regards the last-named company, a statement will be found elsewhere in our columns denying the rumours of amalgamation which have recently been circulated. Among Stores descriptions, Harrods lost the turn at 21s. 9d., and the B.A. Shares remained at 11s. Foodstuffs were quiet. Maypoles were dealt in in the neighbourhood of 6s. 4½d. all day, and finished at the price. Aerated Bread lost 1/16 at 1 7/16 in the Catering group, but Lyons kept the price at 2 11/16, and Liptons at 18s. Guinness lost 5 points at 360 in the Brewery section, and Allsopp Ord. were 3 points lower at 47½. Hoare Ord. fell ⅛ to 7½.

DUNLOPS HARDER.

Further appreciation took place in Dunlops yesterday, the price finishing 3d. higher at 6s. 7½d. Parent Tyre Def. were maintained at 1 5/16. Lever 7 p.c. were firm at 14s. 3d., while the 8 p.c. rose to 14s. 6d. Oil Cakes finished above the worst, although 3d. lower on the day at 19s. 6d., and Cements, after being down to 11s., finished at 11s. 3d., or slightly easier. Magadi Soda were not so good at 7s., and Crosse and Blackwell eased to 7s. Dennis Bros. were better at £1 among Motors, but Vauxhalls gave way to 7s. 3d. B.A.T. at 61s. 6d. were inclined to harden among Tobaccos, but Imperial Tobacco fell to 47s. 6d. Hudson's Bays rose to 5 5/16 in the Land section, and British North Borneo to 11s. Pekin Syndicates eased to 8s. 9d. In the Canadian American group Cities Services put on 15 points to 215 on further support from the other side, movements otherwise exhibiting irregularity. Iron and Steels were off colour. Vickers eased to 10s. 9d., while the tax free kept the price at 12s. 3d., while slight declines occurred in Consett Iron at 1 5/16, and in Guest Keens at 27s. Pearson and Knowles were unaffected by the news of the Deb. issue. Chinese Engineering, after their recent rise, eased to 3⅝. Declines of 6d. took place in Cairn Lines at 15s. 6d., Cunards at 16s., and in Furness Withy at 22s. x.d. Insurance Securities displayed quietness, and among Gas Stocks Imperial Continental were maintained at 136. Marconis fell 1/16 to 11s. in the Wireless section, and in the Cable group Anglo-Americans Pref. lost a point at 85. Nitrates were fairly firm. Exceptionally Rosarios lost 1s. at 21s. Small declines were shown in Lloyds at 48s. 9d., and in Barclays B at 43s. 3d. in the Banking group.

OIL SHARES LOWER.

MARKET FLUCTUATING.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

The Oil share market presented a none too bright appearance at the opening yesterday. At the same time, prices at the start were only a trifle below those ruling on Friday last. Although very little demand existed, quotations showed a tendency to improve during the early hours, but the almost entire absence of demand prevented the firmer tone being maintained, so that, while the leading descriptions were quite steady until about mid-day, the afternoon witnessed a gradual decline in quotations, the more speculative favourites weakening in sympathy with the leaders. Paris came in a seller of Mexican Eagles, and towards the close a certain amount of selling of these shares, and also other favourites, was encountered from the provinces. While Paris sold Mexican Eagles, however, operators in that centre supported Shells to a moderate extent. At the close lower prices were general. One of the few really firm spots was Burmahs, which, after opening easier at 5¼, met with a fair demand, in response to which an advance occurred to 5 5/16 bid. The price receded later to 5¼, but in the street they came into demand again, and left off at 5¼, a gain of 1/16 on balance. Mexican Eagles from 3 1/16 strengthened to 3 3/16, but gave way at the end to 3, which left them 1/16 down on the day. The Pref. lost 1/16 at 2 11/16. Despite a moderate demand on Paris account, Shells declined ⅛ to 4½. Royal Dutch moved between 32¾ and 32, finishing with a loss of ⅜ at 32⅛. Closing prices:—

SOUTH AFRICAN CABLE.

JOBURG, October 22.

There is large buying of Gedulds from 43s. to 46s. on developments. There are buyers of Transvaal Silver at 16s., Modder at 72s. 6d., Government Areas at 81s. 6d., and New State Areas at 24s.

Mr. Christopherson, at the meeting of the Rouxville Diamond Co., said that the collapse of the Diamond Mining market rendered mining operations on the property unprofitable, hence the closing down. The Board would await the revival of propitious times before deciding upon the future policy.

Engineering circles here are much perturbed over the award of the elevator contracts to an American firm. It is contended that British prices for inland elevators were favourable to securing the business, and publication of the comparative figures is asked for.

Sir William Hoy, General Manager of the South African Railways and Ports, is of the opinion that the commercial slump may disappear as quickly as it came.

Darnaway Buildings have been sold for £38,000, equivalent to over £5 per square foot.

A prominent official of the Railway Department, in his evidence before the Unemployment Commission, agreed with the suggestion that it would probably save 2,000 men if the department was administered by a company. He would like time, however, to consider the general effects of the suggested transfer of the system to a company.

RUBBER INQUIRY.

COLONIAL OFFICE COMMITTEE.

An important move in regard to the rubber plantation industry within the Empire was announced yesterday morning. It is that the Colonial Secretary has appointed a Committee, which includes representatives of rubber growers and manufacturers, to inquire into the position and to devise measures to bring about an improvement. The terms of reference are:—

"To investigate and report upon the present rubber situation in British Colonies and Protectorates for the information of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and to advise what remedial measures should be taken to improve the existing situation."

The Committee is constituted of the following: Sir James Stevenson, Bart. (Commercial Adviser to the Colonial Secretary), Chairman; Mr. G. E. A. Grindle (Colonial Office); Sir Stanley Bois (Chairman, Rubber Growers' Association); Sir Edward Brockman (Malay States Agency); Mr. E. J. Byrne (Dunlop Rubber Company); Hon. William Duncan (Straits Rubber Company); Mr. Eric Miller (Harrisons and Crosfield); Sir Edward Rosling (Anglo-Ceylon and General Estates Company). Mr. S. H. Leake, O.B.E. (Colonial Office), will act as Secretary to the Committee.

THE MONEY MARKET.

ABNORMAL EASE IN RATES.

WEAKER MARKS.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Discount rates were almost nominal, and it was difficult to get reliable quotations. The market is settling down as best it can to the new conditions, hoping that time will rectify the present anomalous position and that "Ways and Means" may be speedily reduced. At the same time, nobody would be much surprised at anything. Second-hand Treasuries changed hands at 3 7/16 to 3½ p.c., and the market's buying rate was 3 7/16 p.c. for January maturities. Money remains as abundant as ever, and after renewals at 3 p.c. overnight balances were offered down to 2 p.c., and, in fact, on borrowers' own terms.

The price of gold rallied 8d. to 104s. 8d. per oz. fine. Bar silver fell ⅛d. for both cash and forward business to 40⅛d. and 39⅞d. per oz. fine.

Among foreign exchanges business was somewhat smaller, but for the greater part of the day marks were weaker than on Saturday. The Berlin quotation started off at about 677, but from that point came down, and at the close of public business there was little net change. French and Belgian francs depreciated, and so did Italian lire. Spanish and Swiss quotations moved against us. New York only fluctuated between 3.93 and 3.92½, and fractionally was lower on balance. Central European currencies were not greatly affected by political events. Vienna was called 7,100-7,300, compared with 7,000-7,500 on Saturday, while the Budapest quotation is 3,000.

PRODUCE AND FOOD.

CATTLE

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—Supplies—1,700 cattle, 3,000 lambs. There was much worse trade for the larger supply of cattle on offer to-day. Good bullocks and heifers made from 10d. to 10½d. in a few exceptional cases. Secondary bullocks and heifers were very difficult to move at the lower figures. Very little demand for bulls and cows. Large supply of lambs met a lifeless trade. Any business done was on the basis of 1/2 per lb. sinking offal for the best sorts. The dressed beef trade was not quite so good, sides making from 8d. to 9d. per lb.

GLASGOW, Monday.—Hegarty and Kelly's Report.—Trade slower for all classes of cattle in to-day's market. Owing to large numbers of Irish and American cattle on offer a reduction in prices had to be conceded to effect a clearance. Sheep and lamb trade unchanged.—(Advt.)

HULL, Monday.—Larger supply of pigs (620) penned, but demand equal to it at the increased figure of 17/6. Good trade for best beef, 16/-, secondary 15/-, cows 12/- to 14/- per stone. Very good trade for sheep at 1/4 young stock, ewes 10d., large sheep 1/-. Largest pigs only made 12/- per stone.

Lever's Palm Nut Cake and Meal. Steel Shelters suitable for Garages, Cart or Cattle Sheds.—Wm. Rourke, 36 North Circular road, Dublin.—(Advt.)

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC, Monday.—WHEAT dull, and tendency ruled easier; No. 1 Northern Manitoba cargo January sellers 63/-, white Walla October-November 50/-, No. 2 hard winter ditto 51/-, Australian December-January 52/-, Barusso 62½lbs. January-February 51/-. Parcels of No. 1 Northern Manitoba arrived sold 47/-, December 49/-, January-February Liverpool 49/- per 480lbs. MAIZE steady; Plate cargoes afloat sellers 30/-, November-December 31/6, December-January 32/6, January-February 33/6. Parcels of Plate October-November sold 29/-, November-December quoted 29/9, December-January sold 30/3 per 480lbs. BARLEY quite idle, and rates nominally unaltered. OATS quiet; Plate f.a.q. October-November sellers 21/6, new crop January-February 21/- per 320lbs.

MARK LANE, Monday.—ENGLISH WHEAT dull; whites delivered up 47/- to 49/-, reds 47/- to 49/-. Foreign grades dull and easier; No. 1 Northern Manitoba 51/- to 52/- ex ship, No. 2 ditto 49/- to 50/- ex ship, No. 2 hard winter 50/- ex ship, Australian spot 54/- ex ship. FLOUR easier; English flour 2/- sack lower; Canadian exports patents 58/- ex store, ditto straights 53/- ex store, Kansas patents 55/- ex store, London straights 55/- ex mill, Australian patents 51/- ex store. GRINDING BARLEY dull; English 40/- to 45/-, No. 4 Canadian 34/6 landed, American feed 32/- landed. OATS quietly steady; English 26/- to 31/-, Canadian 30/- to 31/- landed, Plate 25/6 to 26/9 landed, Chilean tawny 26/- to 28/6 landed. MAIZE quiet and easier; yellow African 30/6, white 33/- landed, Plate 30/6 landed.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—WHEAT—Easier prices from Winnipeg and Chicago caused wheat to give way at the outset, but prices later improved owing to the colder weather and sellers more reserved, with a better demand for parcels, and, though options finished under best, still showed a smart advance on the day. C.i.f. parcels No. 1 Manitoba October-November sold at 48/9 to 49/-, arrived 48/-, December-January 48/6, January-February 49/- to 50/-, No. 2 hard winter afloat 47/-, November-December 46/3, and Rosario-Santa Fe (62½lbs.) arrived 50/- per qr. MAIZE—Parcels steadier, 30/- asked for River Plate afloat, and 29/3 November mixed American. Wheat on the spot was firmly held for fully late rates. Maize spot parcels steady for American mixed at 6/4 to 6/4½, and River Plate firmer at 6/5 to 6/5½ per cental. FLOUR has been reduced 2/- per sack for local milled straight run, now being 55/- per 280lbs. Graded red wheat futures opened ½d. lower, lost a further ½d. per cental, but afterwards recovered on better demand and shorts covering, and though closing 1d. to 1½d. under best still showed 3d. to 3½d. advance on the day. Sales 60 loads, at 9/11 up to 10/3½ and 10/2½ for December, and 9/9½, 10/3, and 10/2 per March delivery. Values—December 10/2½, March 10/1½ per cental. Yellow River Plate maize options, with better Argentine advices and colder weather here, were sparingly offered, and five loads November sold at 6/4½, market closing 1½d. to 2d. dearer than Saturday. Values—November 6/4½, December 6/6 per cental. American mixed futures neglected and nominal.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON, Monday.—BUTTER—Market generally quiet. Best quality in fair request; finest Danish 234/- to 238/-, Australian new 184/- to 196/-, Government cold stored 185/- to 184/-, Irish creameries 175/- to 195/-, factories 120/- to 160/-, New Zealand new 206/- to 210/-, Argentine 150/- to 175/-, South African 170/- to 190/-. CHEESE steady at the recent decline, with rather more inquiry for best parcels; Canadian white 96/- to 104/-, coloured 90/- to 100/-, New Zealand white 92/- to 100/-, coloured 84/- to 92/-, English factory 90/- to 95/-, Cheddar 135/- to 150/-, loaf 150/- to 160/-, Dutch finest farmers' Edam 126/- to 129/-, inferior 86/- to 90/-, Gouda 20 p.c. 80/-. HAMS generally quiet, but American brands firm on short supplies; York and Cumberland 220/- to 300/-, American long cut green 113/- to 120/-, ditto short 105/- to 112/-, shoulders square 78/-, picnics 74/- to 76/-. LARD quiet, and tendency easier; Irish 65/- to 75/-, boxes 68/- ex factory, American boxes 72/- to 73/-, American pails 73/3 to 74/3, Danish bladders 70/-. EGGS firmer on high supplies, with a good general demand; English new laid 45/- to 48/-, Dutch all brown 42/- to 43/-, best mixed 38/- to 40/-, Irish 36/- to 38/-, Styrian blues 28/- to 30/-, reds 24/- to 25/-, Roumanian 24/- to 26/-, Lithuanian 24/- to 26/-, Argentine 25/- to 28/-, Morocco 21/- to 22/-, Danish, 18lbs. 42/- to 44/-, 16lbs. 38/- to 40/-; South African 30/- to 33/-, Australian 30/- to 31/-.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—BACON—Chicago advices generally showed a fair advance, especially for live hogs, while arrivals here were practically nil, and the market reopens in the same steady mood, with holders less pressing, as had been noticeable recently. The colder weather is expected to increase consumption, and buyers are less reserved. Cumberlands and bellies meeting an improved inquiry at 94/- to 100/- and 100/- to 104/- per cwt. respectively, fresh parcels of latter being in small compass. Long clears, however, remain quiet, and American Wiltshires slow, with backs in moderate request. HAMS met a fair inquiry, especially for short cut, prices of which tend against buyers. Shoulders remain quiet for New Yorks and squares, but picnics attract moderate attention. Canadian Wiltshires steady for finest selections, but others not much sought after. Irish bacon quiet at the recent reduction to 125/- to 137/- ex factory, with extra heavy weight below this level. Continental quiet at 143/- to 148/- for Danish and 120/- to 132/- for Swedish, and 110/- to 125/- for Dutch. LARD on the spot very scarce, and held for considerably more money. Prime steam quoted 71/- to 72/-; American refined in pails 76/3, boxes 75/- to 76/6 per cwt. CHEESE quiet at about late rates. BUTTER rules fairly steady, especially on best makes. EGGS firm and dearer, with Irish 35/- to 37/-, and Canadian 29/- to 30/- per 120.

BRITISH CELLULOSE.

The Financial News is able authoritatively to set at rest the rumours lately in circulation regarding a proposed amalgamation of the British Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing Company and another undertaking in the textile industry. In reply to inquiries, the British Cellulose Company affirms that the rumours are "without any foundation," and that "no fusion of any kind is in contemplation."

LONDON WOOL SALES.

Catalogues comprising 8,884 bales of wool, consisting of 6,049 bales on account of the British Australian Wool Realisation Association, and 2,835 bales privately owned wool, were brought forward last evening. There was a good attendance of buyers and spirited competition, prices being unchanged as compared with those ruling at the end of last week. The present series of auctions is arranged to close on Friday next.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At the wool sales held at Sydney yesterday 6,373 bales were offered, and good clearances were effected. Japan, the Continent, and Yorkshire participated. There was keen competition for the best grades of merinos, and cross-breds maintained their improvement.

IRISH WILL.

Mr. William Henry Symonds Phillips, of Sans Souci, University road, Belfast, Chairman of Messrs. Phillips and Jones, Ltd., juvenile clothing manufacturers, who died on April 5, has left personal property of the value of £13,069 16s. 1d.

Make Bermaline
Your Bread

THE choicest wheat and malted barley—nature's greatest life-sustaining gifts—prepared by the Bermaline process, give to Bermaline a food value much greater than that of ordinary bread.

The Bermaline process not only increases the nutritive value of the bread but makes it easier to digest.

Indeed, than Bermaline, there is no finer bread baked. It is a complete, highly-nourishing food, with the added virtue of being perfectly delicious.

Just try it for a change.

The Proprietors of "Bermaline," MONTGOMERIE & CO., LTD., IBROX, GLASGOW, supply the special ingredients for making Bermaline Bread to Bakers who are agents throughout Ireland.
The Dublin Agent is PETER KENNEDY, Parnell St., and Bakers' addresses outside of Dublin will be gladly supplied.
Enquiries are invited from Bakers for an agency in places where Bermaline is not sold. P2
